NEW EVIDENCE OFFERED IN GERM CASE

Witnesses Claim Deadly Cathartics Given Heir Ill With Typhoid

CHICAGO, June 17.—Cathartics—mortally dangerous in cases of typhoid—were given to Billy McClintock when he was first taken sick.

That was the testimony the state endeavored to bring out today in questioning Miss Amelia J. Hall and L. L. McArthur, witnesses in the trial of William D. Shepherd, who is charged with the murder of his millionaire foster son.

"I asked Shepherd how long the boy had been sick," testified McArthur, who is assistant secretary of the Northern Trust Co., "and he said a week or ten days.

"Billy," he said "turned around at that time and said, 'No, I haven't got the flu. I've got typhoid fever.'

"I remarked that that seemed strange. Shepherd said it did seem so."

Nurse Testifies

Miss Hall, who was a nurse at McClintock's bedside, likewise referred to young McClintock having been dosed with a cathartic when he became ill.

"Speaking of Billy's condition, Mr. Shepherd told me he had been giving him castor oil when he first became ill," she said. "He said

WIFE SLAYING NOW DENIED BY DENTIST

Dr. Young Declares He Has Not Made Confession; To Fight For Freedom

LOS ANGELES, June 17.—In the first interview since his arrest for the gas murder of his pretty wife, Dr. Thomas W. Young, 46-year-old Los Angeles dentist, today repudiated his confession and declared he would make a fight for his freedom.

At the same time attorneys for the dentist declared the confession said to have been made by Young that he killed his wife and buried her body in a cistern would be shown as one obtained by force and trick, when the doctor was stupefied by fatigue and excitement.

"I have made no confession; it's all lies," the accused dentist shouted when asked about the story he was quoted by officers as relating.

District Attorney Asa Keyes was not alarmed when told Young had denied his confession.

"Young is guilty of a brutal murder and we will convict him," Keyes said.

Dr. Young, Los Angeles dentist who gassed his pretty wife to death with somnoform, deadly dental gas, was to enter a plea to a murder indictment today.

In Fear of Death

Discovery of notes in Mrs. Young's safety deposit box disclosed that she feared death, District Attorney Asa Keyes declared.

"He told me I was crazy and that he would send me to the insane asylum," Mrs. Young had written on a memo. "He threatened to kill me and took pictures of me with a hidden camera when I was undressed."

The finding of the memorandum, Keyes declared, was further proof that Young deliberately planned his wife's murder, and long had threatened to kill her.

"Young has been trying to convince us he is insane but such a claim is ridiculous," said the district attorney.

"We will bitterly fight an insanity plea and will ask that Young pay the penalty for his brutal murder on the gallows."

Denial was made by the authorities this afternoon that Young was connected with the mysterious death of a young woman in Washington, Pa., twenty years ago. The officers said Young's brother, Alexander Young, killed a woman and then took his own life.

"I've got my back up—I will fight every inch of the way."

In a cool, calm voice Dr. Young outlined today in his first interview his plans to battle charges that he killed his wife, Grace.

In his cell in the county jail, the little dentist denied he made any confession.

"I've got Kid McCoy's old cell. And he's left his influence behind and that will make me fight all the harder," Young said.

"I'm a fighter—a full-blooded Irishman—we never stop fighting."

Young then declared his father

LIGHT VOTING FEATURE OF ELECTION

Only 3,308 In Registration Of 16,692 Cast Ballots On Three Projects

With less than 20 per cent of the registered voters of Glendale casting their ballots yesterday in the two bond elections, unofficial figures today indicate that proposition No. 1 on the school bond issue carried, proposition No. 2 on the school bond issue was defeated, and the Memorial Hall bond issue was defeated.

The total vote cast in yesterday's school bond election was 3306, while the total vote cast in the Memorial Hall bond election was 2836. The number of registered voters in Glendale, according to the city clerk's office, reaches 16,692.

Tabulation of totals on the two school bond issues and the Memorial Hall bond issue shows:

School Bonds No. 1—
Yes ..... 2209
No ..... 969
School Bonds No. 2—
Yes ..... 1982
No ..... 1138
Memorial Hall Bonds—
Yes ..... 1437
No ..... 1370

Under the state law, bond issues in California require a majority of two-thirds to carry.

TOTAL DEAD IN TRAIN CRASH MOUNTING

List Reaches Forty-Three, Will Increase; Victims Were On Vacations

HACKETTSTOWN, N. J., June 17.—The death toll in the Lackawanna train wreck mounted slowly today as three investigations got under way to fix responsibility for the catastrophe.

A re-checking of the casualty list in half a dozen hospitals this morning fixed the dead at forty-three and the injured at thirty-one with the probability existing that the dead may total fifty before nightfall. Some of those injured cannot survive, according to physicians.

Dead from Chicago

Aside from the members of the train crew, most of whom came from Scranton, Pa., all of the dead and injured were from Chicago. They had left their homes Sunday on the special D. L. & W. train bound for Hoboken where they expected to sail on Tuesday for a long-awaited holiday abroad.

Aboard the United States liner Republic are 143 of the approximately 250 tourists, many of whom were treated aboard ship by surgeons for injuries received in the crash and burns from clouds of steam which enveloped the wreckage. The Republic sailed yesterday after waiting two hours for a special train to bring the survivors and slightly injured from Rockport.

Explorer To Seek Trace Of Amundsen And Hunt For New Continent

By BERT FORD
For International News Service.

BOSTON, June 17.—Bound on the dual quest of finding a new continent north of Alaska and attempting to find Captain Raold Amundsen, the missing Norwegian explorer, Commander Donald B. MacMillan's Arctic expedition started on the first leg of its northward dash this afternoon.

Amid the boom of navy yard guns, hoarse whistles from harbor craft, roar of airplanes above and cheers of thousands of spectators ashore, the interpid MacMillan and the navy contingent of the exploration party set sail at 12:15 p. m. aboard the steamer Peary for MacMillan's ninth trip into the frozen north.

Big Crowd Present

The sailing of the Peary from historic Charlestown came on the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the famous battle of Bunker Hill, which took place within a stone's throw of the navy yard. Thousands of visitors were at the yard. The weather was ideal.

The program incidental to the sailing of the Peary named after the discoverer of the north pole, included a "farewell" breakfast to the commander and his men by the state of Massachusetts tendered by Governor Fuller at a Boston hotel and addresses at the navy yard on the deck of the famous frigate Constitution.

Thousands gathered about the

TAX REVISION CERTAIN ON AVAILABLE FIGURES

About $150,000,000 Will Be On Hand At Close Of Fiscal Year, Estimate

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News. Copyright, 1925.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Indications today were that there would be a surplus of approximately $150,000,000 at the end of the present fiscal year.

This is higher than any previous calculation and though the figures are necessarily unofficial at this time because all the available data have not been collected from the various internal revenue districts, it may be said on reliable authority that the budget surplus will come to the $150,000,000 figure without question.

This surplus is far beyond expectations. President Coolidge in transmitting the budget gave as the treasury's estimate a surplus of $68,000,000. This was considered too little on which to base a tax revision.

Await Figures

Even in March of this year when it was apparent that the receipts were larger than anticipated, the Coolidge administration hesitated to predict a big surplus because many people paid their income taxes in full on March 15 and there was no way to know what the June installment would be without analyzing about seven million individual returns, an impossible task in such a short time.

So Congress was discouraged from applying any retroactive tax cut and treasury officials advised that the country wait till June 15 before beginning to grow optimistic about another tax cut.

Congress Hesitates

Meanwhile leaders in both the Senate and House knowing that Congress even went further in economizing than did the executive's recommendations, began to estimate the probable surplus and talk of a tax revision. It

RUN AIR LINE ATLANTIC TO GLENDALE

Inventor To Open Passenger Service When Dirigible Is Ready For Use

Air passenger service between New York City and Southern California, contemplated by Thomas B. Slate, world-famed Glendale inventor, as soon as he has completed construction of his new 400-foot dirigible, will be inaugurated with Glendale as the western terminus, Slate assured officers of the Western Aero League and Chamber of Commerce officials yesterday.

A tempting offer to build his ship at San Diego and to establish his headquarters there has been turned down by Slate, he said. The big aircraft will be built at Ross Field, Arcadia, where facilities of the United States government have been turned over to the inventor through the efforts of Lieut. C. P. Kane, vice-president of the Aero League. George B. Harrison, a director of the League and a pioneer lighter-than-air pilot of the United States army, will assist in the construction of the big ship.

Upon its completion, service between the Pacific and Atlantic will be established with the new type dirigible. If Slate lands transcontinental air mail contracts, and he is confident that he will, Glendale will become the air mail terminus also.

Dr. T. C. Young, president of the Western Aero League, left at noon today for the east. After attending the convention of International Kiwanis clubs at St. Paul, he will continue on to Detroit, Cleveland and Dayton, where he will visit all the large airplane manufacturing concerns of that region.

Guest at Ford Plant

Dr. Young will be the guest of Edsell Ford at the Ford plant. Matters of aeronautical development in the west will be discussed with big eastern manufacturers in an effort to get them to establish Pacific coast branches, Dr. Young announced.

Dr. Young will be away for a period of four weeks. He will, in all probability, make a side trip to Washington, D. C., while in the east.

The Glendale Chamber of Commerce, by unanimous action of the board of directors yesterday afternoon, became a member of the Western Aero League.

Club Ends Year

The Thursday Afternoon club of Glendale will hold the last regular business meeting of the year Thursday afternoon, June 18, at 2:30 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. A. L. Bancroft, 1423 South Brand boulevard. Mrs. Carrie Campbell will preside.

Amaranth Court

An enjoyable entertainment for members of Ionic court, Order of Amaranth, was provided at the meeting last night at Masonic temple, by the bobbed haired members, the "long hairs" being special guests. Mrs. Eva Bellinger was chairman of the group of fourteen "bobs" who planned for the affair. Mrs. Lillian Wilkinson sang solos, with Miss Velma Woodruff as accompanist; Ella Delvine and Jack Daggert gave dances in costume, Mrs. George Emerson acting as accompanist. Forty members of the court were present. After refreshments were served dancing was enjoyed. Mrs. Gertrude E. Baldwin, royal matron, directed the business meeting, when candidates were elected for initiation. The next meeting will be held July 7, when initiation will take place.

Meet at Church

The women's organization of Glendale Presbyterian church met all day yesterday at the church. Mrs. Anna R. Blachly, chairman of the missionary department presided in the morning. The program was in charge of circle six, Mrs. Stadt chairman. Mrs. D. F. Rae, vice-chairman directed the devotionals. Mrs. Sarah E. Lindsay, for sixteen years connected with the board of national missions, spoke on "The Highlanders of Kentucky." Luncheon at noon was in charge of circle twelve, Mrs. Virginia Reynolds, chairman. Mrs. Ada Lynn, president of the women's organization, presided over the afternoon business session. A picnic will be held the third Tuesday in July in Echo park, Los Angeles.

Presents Pupils

Pearl G. Curran will present a group of her piano pupils in the second spring recital tonight at the Van Grove studio, 337 North Brand boulevard. Visitors will be welcomed.

EXTENSION OF EXCHANGE PLANNED

Important Step Is Taken At Meeting Here; State President Attends

An innovation in extension work among Exchange clubs of California was accomplished last night at the Egyptian Village, when seventy-five representatives of clubs in Southern California gathered with Louis Oneal of San Jose, state president, at the Egyptian Village cafe. The state was divided into four districts, and four district governors will be named.

George Green, president of the Los Angeles Exchange club, was named by President Oneal as district governor for this district, to be known as district No. 1, and comprising all the counties between San Diego and Los Angeles counties, in addition to Mono and Inyo counties. This appointment is subject to the approval of the national president and national secretary.

District governors of other districts in the state will be appointed at similar meetings to be held later. The action last night is the outgrowth of a fight carried to the convention floor at the state gathering in Santa Barbara last month, when President Oneal objected to the lack of co-operation on extension work shown by national headquarters.

The business session followed a dinner. The representatives held a general discussion of methods in conducting meetings, exchanged ideas for the advancement of the organization, and outlined plans for carrying on extension work throughout the state. William Baker, president of the local club, was in attendance at the meeting.

Beauty Parlor Opens At Mac's Barber Shop

Announcement is made today by J. R. McCracken, proprietor of Mac's Barber shop, 118 East Broadway, of the opening of a beauty parlor service in connection with the barber shop. Miss White, known in Glendale for her ability along her chosen line, will be in charge of the new department, and will specialize in manicuring and marcelling. The shop makes a specialty of bobbing hair, and has three chairs. The shop is open from 8 o'clock in the morning until 8 o'clock at night.

Couple Honored, Going Back To Mission Field

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Bierma, who are returning to missionary work in India, will be given a farewell honor tonight at Central Christian church, where a reception will be held at 7:30 o'clock, following the weekly church supper. The Biermas, who were missionaries in India, have been spending their furlough in Glendale. They will leave Tuesday for the east and September 6 will sail for India. They will represent the Cedar Rapids, Ia., Christian church.

TALK ON NEAR EAST

Rev. George A. Miller, field director of the Near East for Arizona, New Mexico and Southern California, will give an illustrated lecture tonight at 7:30 o'clock at Glendale Presbyterian church. A congregational meeting will also be held when an elder will be elected and other matters of business transacted. Rev. W. E. Edmonds, pastor, will have charge.

ROBBERS RAID HOMES, GET RICH LOOT

Series Of Burglaries During Night Cause $1000 Loss; Enter Two Offices

Burglars swooped down on Glendale last night and escaped with loot valued at nearly $1,000, including a long gold chain more than 100 years old, worth $250 but invaluable as a family heirloom.

Another gang of yeggmen entered two dentists' offices, evidently in search of drugs. From the office of Dr. H. O. Scott, 125½ North Brand boulevard, a small quantity of gold fillings was taken. A futile attempt had been made to break open a cabinet that contained valuable instruments. The office of Dr. F. C. Lee, 106 East Broadway, was searched for drugs but nothing of value was taken.

Loss Is Severe

Vance H. Finley, 716 Cordova street, suffered the greatest loss. Burglars who entered by a side window while the family was away for the evening, took jewelry worth more than $700, including the gold chain, knee length, that had been in his family for more than a century. Seven rings worth $150, a fur coat valued at $75, a $25 stick pin, pearls worth $25, a circle pin set with sapphires valued at $50 and other articles were stolen. Valuable silverware was overlooked by the thieves.

The homes of H. E. Psenner, 218 North Central avenue, and E. L. Wellman, 354 West Pioneer drive, were also entered during the evening. From the Psenner home $10 in cash and a few articles of nominal value were taken, and from the Wellman residence $5 in cash, an overcoat and a watch were stolen. Entrance was gained in each instance through a side window. Detective Sergeant F. C. Williams has been assigned to the cases.

Washington Oarsmen To Take Trial Spin

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 17.—Dissatisfied with the figures that appeared on his watch at the end of yesterday's trial, "Rusty" Callow plans to give his University of Washington another spin "under the ship" before the end of the week, it developed today. The Washington coach will send his varsity out over the full distance of Monday's championship race as soon as comparatively calm weather prevails. The Huskies' time yesterday was 21 minutes, 38 seconds, but its significance was generally discounted, owing to the heavy going.

Dad Vail of Wisconsin also awaited the first sign of favorable water to send the Badgers out in an effort to clip a minute or more from the time of their recent trial.

"The boys have speed and power," Dad said today, "but I am not certain that they can last four miles. I plan to find out before Monday."

Pennsylvania will do little or little or nothing until its seven absentees return from graduation exercises at Philadelphia today. Cornell also will take it easy this afternoon after its hard trial of yesterday.

Babe' Herman Playing With Seattle Indians

Glendale baseball fans who marveled at the ability of Floyd "Babe" Herman during his high school days, will have an opportunity to see the former Glendale diamond and grid star in action this week at Washington park, Los Angeles. "Babe" is playing first base with the Seattle Indians this season, his first trip in the Coast league. Last year he played with the Little Rock club. The Seattle Indians battle with the Los Angeles Angels for third place in the league this week.

MUSIC MEET ENDS

Mrs. J. Arthur Meyers, Mrs. Roger Fitz and Miss Isabel Isgrigg returned last night with the Lyric Music club of Los Angeles from Portland, Ore., where they attended the National Music club convention held last week. According to reports from the convention, it was agreed by those present that the Lyric club presented the best program during the convention of any state represented. California literature was distributed at all of the banquet tables during the sessions. The Cleveland Fortnightly club of Cleveland, Ohio, came to Los Angeles en route east and will have headquarters at the Clark hotel, Los Angeles, for three days.

HOLD CHURCH PICNIC

The annual church and Sunday school picnic of Glendale Presbyterian church will be held Saturday afternoon at Eagle Rock park. J. MacMillan is general chairman of arrangements for the outing. Automobiles will leave the church at 1 o'clock. Outdoor sports such as races and ball games will feature the entertainment. Indoor ballgames will be played between the elders and Sunday school teachers while the ushers and reception committee will play each other. A basket dinner will be served at 5:30 o'clock.

Extensive peat bogs in Finland are to be reclaimed to help the fuel situation.

NOTIONS AND LITTLE THINGS

THE notion department in our store (by that we mean the multitude of small articles that are essential in all homes) is conveniently located in the front part of our store, and our store itself is centrally located almost at the corner of Brand and Broadway, and for that reason is really in the "Center of Things," so far as Glendale shoppers are concerned.

Those who wish the best quality in these Sewing Helps, and courteous service besides, will enjoy shopping here. We take special interest in always having the best and latest in the various articles so essential and yet so frequently neglected. In buying for this department our aim is to always buy the best rather than the cheapest—believing that quality, even in a paper of pins, is appreciated.

TUJUNGA NOTES

TUJUNGA, June 17.—Arrangements for the Fourth of July celebration are progressing. A valley picnic will be held in Monte Vista park. Sunland, Valley Center and Tujunga are uniting in the exercises. The morning will be devoted to a field meet for which a number of races have been planned. Prizes will be given in the shape of medals for first prize and ribbons for second and third prizes. An old-time basket lunch will follow. In the afternoon there will be speaking, music and a ball game.

The American Legion post of Tujunga has been successful in raising its quota for the endowment fund drive, and has received a letter of congratulation from the chairman of the American Legion Endowment Fund campaign in Southern California.

Thirty-two members of the Tujunga Kiwanis club met with the Glendale Kiwanis club June 5. The meeting was presided over by President Carroll Parcher of Tujunga. "Jimmie" Smith rendered a couple of solos and directed the singing of a number of his popular songs. The clubs congratulated each other upon each having made a record of perfect attendance during the attendance contest, which extended over a period of ten weeks. Last week's meeting of the Kiwanis club was held as usual in the Women's club building. Philip McCaughn of Long Beach spoke on club activities.

The Women's Bible class of the Community church held its monthly social at the home of Mrs. Frank Hough last Thursday. Mrs. J. A. Jenkins gave a vocal solo, accompanied by Mrs. Schoch. Mrs. Genevieve Adams gave a number of readings, and Marion Messick gave both readings and piano solo. Refreshments were served and a very pleasant afternoon spent.

Dr. Conner entertained the J. O. C. class of the Community church Monday night, June 8, twenty-five members of the class being present. The occasion was a stork party to there members of the class. The rooms were decorated in pink. Mrs. Sisson of Sunland, Mrs. Shibley, Mrs. Green and Mrs. Humphries assisted Dr. Conner in entertaining.

The golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Dunn of Los Angeles street was celebrated last Wednesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Dunn were married in Lancaster, Mo., and have lived in different parts of Iowa and in Washington, D. C., where Mr. Dunn was a White House detective during the Taft administration. They have made their home in Tujunga during the past year. Dainty refreshments were served and a happy evening spent. Those present were: Mrs. Emma Hoffman, who made the wedding cake for the occasion; Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Adams, M. O. Godding, Mrs. Elizabeth P. Godding, and Miss Zoe Gilbert. Mrs. Godding and Mrs. Dunn were schoolmates, and Mr. and Mrs. Adams and Mr. and Mrs. Dunn were friends in Bloomfield, Iowa, during their early married life.

The motion picture theatre has been purchased by Harry T. Walz, owner of the Photoplay house of Pasadena. Mr. Walz will continue to conduct the Pasadena theatre, but will devote considerable time to the Tujunga house. He has purchased the building and lot and will remodel the building and install a new organ. The theatre will be known as the Jewel. Daily shows will be given with four changes a week and matinees on Saturdays and Sundays. Mr. and Mrs. Jules Peronnet, the retiring managers and former owners of the theatre, will continue to make their home in Tujunga.

PLANT MORE TOMATOES

GEORGETOWN, Del., June 17.—The planting of tomatoes, which was held up by drouth, has been resumed, and one day last week 10,000 acres were planted. Canners are contracting for fruit at $15 to $18 a ton.

AT LA CRESCENTA

LA CRESCENTA, June 17.—One of the largest classes ever graduated from the Crescenta eighth grade will receive their diplomas Thursday night at 8 o'clock, in the school auditorium. Special music will be supplied by the girls' glee club and the school orchestra. Each graduate will wear pink carnations, the class flower, and silver and pink ribbons, the class colors.

Programs will be given those attending, the cover design being the original design of Elizabeth Talbot Martin, and is carried out in silver and pink, depicting a full-rigged schooner in rosy tints sailing over the horizon of a silver sea. The girls will wear middies and skirts, the boys white shirts, dark trousers and small red bow ties. A. T. Blanford, supervisor, will be in charge of the program.

William Sechler of West Montrose is seriously ill at his home. Mr. Sechler is the owner of the Sechler Cabinet Shops, and has lived here for several years, taking an active part in all civic activities.

On Saturday the men of the La Crecenta Community church will work all day getting the church grounds into shape for planting the numerous shrubs and trees which have been donated for that purpose. The Women's Service league will serve a hot potluck lunch and will have supper and a social to finish the day. All plants and shrubs may be left at the church on Saturday morning.

Rev. Clifford Jones, pastor of the church, announces the opening of the Daily Vacation Bible school, to be held in the church parlors. The course will include Bible instruction, handwork, gaves and calisthenics. All children will be welcome. The school will open Monday.

A charming pupils' recital was given at the school auditorium by the pupils of Misses Margaret Hauber and Beulah Leitzell, assisted by Misses Cora Mae Harris and Dacotah Mizener. The stage was a bower of floral loveliness, with gladioli making a perfect background for "Autumn," the dance given by students from the University of Southern California, at which Miss Hauber teaches.

The dancers were attired in costumes of green and brown tones, dancing to the music of "Rondo Capriccioso," by Mendelssohn, followed by "Rustle of Spring," by Sinding. Miss Cora Mae Harris, an advanced pupil of Miss Hauber, accompanied the dancers. Miss Dacotah Mizener was especially well received, making her first public appearance since her return from New York, where she has been studying. Her "Polonaise," by MacDowell was beautifully encored with the "Shadow Dance," by the same composer.

Miss Mizener will have charge of the summer school for Miss Hauber. After the recital a reception was held for the visiting artists, Thelma MacFarland, Lillian Cohen and Betty and Margaret Eichbauer, pupils of the U. S. C. dancing class. Other pupils who took part in the recital were: Jean, Constance and Betty Angier, Ruth Fisher, Karlene and Elizabeth Burt, Lucile and Helen Rieger, Emily Brombacher, Jack and Philip Stine, Madeline Julian, Marguerite Hingston, Mildred and Mariom Biescar, Virginia and Helen Haskins, Evelyn Sears, Marguerite Behn, Margery Wildhack and Ruth Reynolds.

Little Miss Margaret Salmacia of Glendale played "The Big Clock" and "Marching," to the delight of her audience. Miss Hauber expresses her appreciation to the Glendale Music Co. for the concert grand used during the evening.

MARS TEMPERATURE

Afternoon temperature in Summer on Mars is from ten to twenty degrees above freezing, according to astronomical observers of this country after experiments during the past year.

P-T.A.

Pacific

Members of the outgoing executive board of Pacific P.-T. A. will be entertained tomorrow afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock by Mesdames Rose Mesecher and Earl Steele at the Mesecher home, 446 West Harvard street. A program is being planned for entertainment.

Central

Mrs. E. R. Ripley, who was recently re-elected to the presidency of Central P.-T. A., was honored Monday at a luncheon for executive board at the home Mrs. C. A. Bunting, 1325 North Brand boulevard. During the afternoon a business meeting was held. Final reports were given and plans made for next year.

BONDS TO ADD MANY ROOMS IN SCHOOLS

Over Seventy Class Halls To Be Built In Addition To Offices Is Plan

Glendale grade school children will have seventy-three more class rooms in additions and new buildings to be erected with the major portion of the $1,063,000 bond issue approved at y sterday's election.

Four new buildings, three of which sites also are to be purchased, will contain four rooms each in addition to kindergarten, offices and equipment. All will be constructed from similar plans and will cost about $43,000 each. A site to cost approximately $21,000 will be purchased for the Lake street school. The Verdugo Woodlands site will cost $20,000 and the Glendale Heights site, $4,000. Each site will contain approximately five acres. Land on which the Sparr Heights school will be erected has already been obtained.

Hold Agreements

The estimated cost of sites is based on signed agreements, property owners' statements of prices and estimates by the campaign committee of fifteen, headed by Alex Mitchell. Building costs were estimated after consultation with architects, and equipment estimates were obtained after a survey of the present market. All the estimates are believed to be accurate.

Of the total amount voted $178,000 will be used for the purchase of sites and additional land. The remainder is for the new buildings, additions to present structures and equipment.

The money voted in bonds yesterday will be expended by the Board of Education as follows:

Intermediate Schools

Glendale avenue: Additions to grounds, $62,000; additions to building: Six class rooms, one manual training room, additional plumbing, equipment, $63,000; total, $125,000.

Glenwood road: Eight class rooms, manual training, cooking, sewing, science rooms; administration department, auditorium, 70x70 feet; cafeteria, boiler room, lockers to be built along corridors, equipment, $161,000.

Elementary Schools

Acacia avenue: Four class rooms, additional toilets, equipment, $29,000.

Broadway: Four class rooms, one lavatory unit, equipment, $32,000.

Central avenue: Four class rooms; additional toilets, equipment, $27,000.

Columbus avenue: Six class rooms, one manual training room, additional plumbing, equipment, $68,000. Additional land, $37,000; total, $105,000.

Replaces Burned Building

Doran street: New center section to replace burned building: Eight class rooms, offices, plumbing, equipment, $68,000; land, six lots at $3500 each, $21,000; total, $89,000. For this building $8000 of the required amount will be derived from insurance on the destroyed structure. The remainder is from the bond issue.

Grand View: Eight class rooms, sewing and manual training rooms, cafeteria, storage room, toilets, equipment, $81,000.

Magnolia avenue: Three class rooms, lavatory, office, equipment, $31,000.

Pacific avenue: Six class rooms, equipment, $44,000.

New Sites and Buildings

Lake street: Four class rooms, kindergarten, offices, lavatories, equipment, $43,000; site, $21,000; total, $64,000.

Sparr Heights: Same building plan and equipment, $43,000.

Verdugo Woodlands: Same building plan and equipment, $43,000; site, $20,000; total, $63,000.

Glendale Heights: Same building plan and equipment, $43,000; site, $54,000; total, $97,000.

ERECT LODGES IN MOUNTAIN FASTNESS

Haines Canyon Subdivided As Homes For Business Men Of Southland

One of the Sierra Madre canyons, near enough to be accessible for the man in business here or in Los Angeles and far enough away from the hum of traffic to make a quiet mountain home, is to be developed by the Roy L. Kent Co., 130 South Brand. The property lies in Haines canyon and will be known as the Haines Canyon Estates. It lies two miles above Tujunga and at an elevation of about 2500 feet. It is eleven miles from Glendale and eighteen miles from downtown Los Angeles.

"We are not really open yet," said Kent today. "The property has just been planned and so far has been shown only to people whom we have invited individually to pay it a visit."

Will Build Lodges

The company classes the property as an exclusive and private subdivision with room for a limited number of high class mountain lodges with all modern conveniences. The estate is private property for those owning a home inside the gate.

Pure mountain water will be piped to every lodge on the place. A small septic tank will be required for all lodges in addition to a general sewer system. Attention will be paid to opening bridle trails for those who love saddle horses.

All plans for improvement must be approved and every lodge must cost not less than $2500. They can be used for all-year-round homes if so desired. Buildings must fit into the landscape in a satisfactory manner. Race and color restrictions will prevail, said Kent.

State Leader A.O.U.W. Tells Of Grand Lodge

E. T. Lisle, state manager of the Ancient Order of United Workmen, will give a report of the recent grand lodge meeting tomorrow night at the meeting of Glendale lodge at 8 o'clock in the Hahn auditorium, 109-A North Brand boulevard. Final plans will be made for the benefit dance next Tuesday night at the same place for the lodge orchestra. Mrs. Mary R. Morrow, director of the orchestra, asks lodge members and friends to secure dance cards from the following members of the orchestra, Eddie Eichelberger, Clarence Talbott, Grant and Wilbur Abbott, Charles Hirt, Frank Howe, Marr Fraley, William Schaeffle, Mrs. Glee Fatland and Mrs. Morrow. Proceeds are to buy uniforms and equipment.

Plans are under way in Hungary for the merger of all important rubber firms of Hungary, thus creating a mighty rubber monopoly.

Very Light Vote Is Registered On Bonds

by a majority of four votes, if the total number of votes cast is taken as the basis when determining the two-thirds majority. If the number of votes counted, after scratched and defaced ballots have thrown out, is used as the basis, the issue carried with 271 more votes than necessary for a two-thirds majority.

The heaviest school bond vote was cast in precinct No. 4, which included approximately all of the territory lying east of Brand boulevard, north of Broadway and south of Stocker street, and the continuation thereof, including Sycamore canyon. The polling place was the Doran school. In this precinct there were 704 ballots cast. The returns show 482 votes in favor of No. 1 issue and 196 against, while there were 423 votes in favor of No. 2 issue and 245 against it. On the Memorial Hall bond issue in this precinct the vote was: Yes, 316; no, 321.

The lightest vote was in precinct No. 8, where 124 votes were cast. Precincts 6, 7 and 8 gave the school bond issue a large majority, but did not take kindly to the Memorial Hall bond issue.

The Memorial Hall bond issue failed to get the required two-thirds majority in any of the eight precincts. In three precincts, Nos. 1, 3 and 4, the issue received more votes against it than there were ballots in favor of it.

CITIES TO JOIN IN OPPOSING ANNEXATION

People Of Localities Around Glendale Will Organize With Solid Front

An organization of cities and communities of the lower San Fernando and La Crescenta valleys is expected to be affected when consolidation committees from six localities meet at the Oakmont Country club tonight.

Having as their main purpose the consolidation of the communities surrounding Glendale with this city, in order to present a strong front against movements for annexation to Los Angeles, it is expected also that plans for a borough system of government, bringing the valley towns into closer co-operation yet permitting each to continue under its present form of government, will be advanced.

Glendale, Burbank, La Crescenta, Montrose, Verdugo City, Casa Verdugo and Verdugo Hills Highland drive territory will be represented. Glendale delegates will go to the meeting without any plan to advance, they declared. They will be headed by D. H. Smith, president of the Chamber of Commerce. Other Glendalians will be C. W. Ingledue, Fred Deal and Arthur Campbell.

Burbank delegates, headed by Earl Du Fur, Chamber of Commerce president and including a number of city officials, will advance the borough plan of government for the valley towns, it was believed.

Leads Casa Verdugo

There will be at least twenty-five representatives of the various communities at the meeting. W. E. Hewitt, past president of the Glendale Chamber, will lead Casa Verdugo residents who advocate closer connection with Glendale.

It was announced this morning that a number of Alhambra business men, now advocating a similar move on the part of Alhambra and adjoining communities, will attend the consolidation meeting here. The San Gabriel valley towns hope to join forces to protest against annexation to Los Angeles also, it was said.

RAILROAD RATES CUT

WASHINGTON, June 17.—The Interstate Commerce commission today held that present freight rates on cottonseed oil, cake, meal and hulls from Los Angeles, El Centro and Calexico, Cal., and from Phoenix, Ariz., to El Paso were unreasonable, and ordered the railroads to put new rates into effect on or before September 8.

GOLF LINKS IS NO SITE FOR RAIL LINE

Joker Is Found By Chamber In County Plan to Improve Verdugo Wash Free

A scheme evolved by the Los Angeles county Board of Supervisors for getting the Verdugo wash rip-rapped free of charge might look good on the surface, but Glendale Chamber of Commerce directors found a joker when they delved deeply into the plan. Such was the allegation made at the board meeting yesterday afternoon when purported efforts of the supervisors to obtain a gravel car rail line through the golf links of the Oakmont Country club were discussed.

According to information in the hands of the chamber directors, a rock and gravel concern has offered to rip-rap the Verdugo wash free of charge, provided the supervisors in return grant them a right-of-way for a track to their quarry in the La Crescenta valley.

Directors Balk

The proposed track would follow the line of the wash through the Oakmont Country club grounds and would connect with the Glendale-Montrose railway line just south of the golf links.

Not only were the directors of the chamber, some of them also directors of the Oakmont club, opposed to the rock line running through the golf course, but they likewise balked at "converting Glendale avenue into a rock quarry runway," as one of the directors expressed it. It was said the management of the Glendale-Montrose line favored the track as it would bring large revenue to that concern. More than 100 carloads of gravel would be hauled over the line daily, if the plans carried, it was declared.

Obstacle Is Found

The supervisors, struck with the idea of economy involved in the offer of the rock company, were inclined to accept the offer and grant the franchise for the right-of-way. There was but one obstacle in the way—the wash through the Oakmont grounds is private property, and would have to be acquired by the county before the grant could be made to the rock company.

The supervisors, it was said, didn't intend to tell the Oakmont directors anything about the rock line, but to seek control of a fifty-foot strip along the wash on the grounds that flood control work would be done with county money in the event the county owned the wash.

It is understood that the club directors look favorably on the offer of the county to improve the wash and will grant title to the property shortly. A Chamber of Commerce committee, headed by Charles W. Ingledue, will get in touch with the Oakmont directors, however, to urge that they insert a clause in the deed prohibiting the use of the wash for railway purposes.

Al Herman Chases All Gloom Away With Act

When Al Herman, the assassin of grief and remorse, steps on the stage down Orpheum way this week, old man gloom and all the little glooms are chased from Los Angeles. Al kids the audience and pokes fun at the acts before him to the delight of everybody. Wallace Eddinger proves to everyone's satisfaction that things could be worse. His personality, together with a good supporting cast, puts his funny sketch over with a "bang."

Dick Keene and Virginia Barrett pull some new wise cracks and show the customers they can dance. Florence Tempest, aided by Homer Dickinson, keep everyone in smiles with their "Rain-Beau" presentation. The Six Flying Hassens, billed as whirlwind wizards, open the show with lots of speed, while the Arco brothers show their athletic artistry along acrobatic lines.

Duci de Kerekparto, royal violinist virtuose and Karyl Norman, the Creole Fashion Plate, are held over for the second week. Topics of the day and International Newsreel bring to an end a mighty good show.

REALTORS ARE TOLD WORK OF SHERIFF

Eugene W. Biscailuz Informs Board Of Criminal And Civil Cases Handled

Work of the civil and criminal division of the sheriff's office was explained in an address by Undersheriff Eugene W. Biscailuz before members of the Glendale Realty board today noon at the Egyptian Village cafe.

The importance of the civil work done by the office, Biscailuz declared, is indicated by its volume. During the year 1923 and under the supervision of Captain A. C. Jewell, the civil division issued 1500 writs of attachment, 800 writs of execution, handled 300 foreclosures, and seized property in 500 claim and delivery actions. An ordinary week's work for this department, he declared, is the levy or release of 75 attachments. Last year the value of property involved in these matters was estimated at $5,000,000, Undersheriff Biscailuz declared.

Crime Is Discussed

Organized crime and how the menace is handled in Los Angeles county was explained by the speaker. A number of instances where the sheriff's office has been successful in its efforts against well organized bands of specialized criminals were quoted by Biscailuz.

"Most criminals are ultimately caught and punished," Biscailuz said. "Information is obtained from the associates of the criminals and bit by bit the evidence is gained that leads to location of the gang and arrest and conviction of most or all of its members. Nor can the criminal escape by going outside the state. There is a method of circularizing the country with descriptions and pictures of the man that is wanted. Sooner or later the criminal is picked up elsewhere for some crime, the circulars are scanned and he is returned to the scene of his first transgression for proper punishment."

More Winter Crimes

Another fact about local crimes brought out by Biscailuz in his talk was that the number of crimes committed in winter is approximately double those perpetrated during the summer months. In February, 1924, the number of major crimes including homicides, robberies and burglaries, was 175 against forty-five for August, 1923, he showed.

"Some crimes can be prevented by ordinary watchfulness on the part of the public," the speaker continued. "Seldom is an automobile stolen when it is protected by a proper auto theft lock. The auto owner who gets out of his car, runs into the house for just a moment and leaves the machine unguarded and unprotected is generally the loser. Careful locking will prevent many auto thefts."

Orchestra Is Praised By Honorary President

Mrs. Charles H. Toll, honorary president of Glendale Symphony orchestra, gave a pleasant surprise to members of the orchestra last night following rehearsal at Glendale Intermediate school. Members of the orchestra, under direction of J. Arthur Meyers, had been rehearsing for the final contest with Redlands.

In the recent Eisteddfod events the Glendale Symphony orchestra and Redlands orchestra tied, the judges being unable to reach a decision. Mrs. Toll came in during the rehearsal and asked members of the orchestra to meet her in the cafeteria of the school after rehearsal. Refreshments of ice cream and home-made cake were served by Mrs. Toll, assisted by her son, Gerald. Mrs. Toll gave a short talk, stating how proud she was of the orchestra, and that she had been thrilled with their work in the Eisteddfod events. She also stated that she was going abroad June 26, and on her return expected to take a more active interest in the orchestra's activities. J. Arthur Meyers, director, responded with a short talk of appreciation.

Student Gets Perfect Mark In Hard Contest

David Chasse, student of A-8-2 class of Wilson Intermediate school has set a record by winning a mark of 100 per cent in the decathlon test in athletics, held recently at the school. It has been said that no one has ever earned a perfect score in this test. David is thirteen years of age and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry V. Chasse of 619 North Orange street. Other boys at Wilson who won high marks were Leonard Davis, 96 per cent; Chilton Allison, Gordon McDonald, Saunders Grace, Denny Tatlow, each making 95 per cent; Frank Hoops, 94 per cent; Harold Stancliff, 90 per cent; Harry A. Lintz directed the test.

PLAN TEST CASE IN ARREST AT ATWATER

Police Action In Tagging Motorists on Glendale Boulevard May Be Taken To Court for Decision

Declaring his belief that the Los Angeles police department is proceeding illegally in arresting motorists who fail to keep to the right side of Glendale boulevard while traveling through the Atwater district, Clarence R. Snethen, executive secretary of the Los Angeles Traffic commission, promised immediate attention of the commission to the Atwater situation, late yesterday afternoon.

Snethen intimated that a test would be made of some of the cases now pending in police court to determine whether the motorcycle officers are within their right in making wholesale arrests along the boulevard.

At the same time indignation was high in the district. Business men and officers of the Atwater Improvement association branded the action of the police in making arrests as "unjust" and promised that immediate action would be taken in the matter. Motorcycle officers on duty this morning said that close to 600 motorists have been tagged since the traffic drive was started several days ago.

Double-barreled action is contemplated by the property owners of the district, it was declared. First they will prevail upon the police department to refrain from further arrests until motorists have been given ample opportunity to become familiar with the new ruling.

Secondly, they will take immediate action before the State Railroad commission demanding additional crossings over the Pacific Electric right-of-way so that it will not be necessary to "travel several blocks in order to cross the street."

Rumors that residents might take matters in their own hands and establish their own crossings over the tracks, caused police to take added precautions today, it was said. Several persons were said to have disregarded the curbs along the right-of-way, driving over the tracks where no crossings are now provided.

Work Delayed By Water

One of the most difficult pieces of engineering ever undertaken by the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co. in Southern California confronts engineers of the company in the construction of a telephone conduit over the Los Angeles river to serve the Atwater district.

Underground water that has delayed completion of the Los Feliz drive bridge and has caused much trouble and damage in the construction of the Glendale outfall sewer line, is hampering the work on the conduit. Large pumps are kept constantly at work draining the water out of the ditch so that crews can proceed with their construction of the new conduit. Cost of the work will be greatly increased and completion of the conduit delayed by the water, it was said.

When completed, the conduit will connect all phones in the Atwater district with a new exchange in the Prospect office in Hollywood, bettering the service and making available ample telephone facilities for all times to come.

Infected Foot Threatens

George Daniels of Atwater avenue, well-known civic worker and an executive officer of the Atwater Improvement association, has been ordered back to his bed for the third time in recent months suffering from an infection of the foot. Several operations have failed to have the desired effect so that further surgical treatment will be necessary, it was stated.

Purchases New Residence

Mrs. R. M. Monsey will occupy the residence at 3401 Larga avenue, which she recently purchased from Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Keyte, former Atwater residents who now reside in Alhambra.

Will Open Beauty Parlor

Mrs. William C. Oats, well-known Atwater resident living at 3406 Perlita will open a beauty parlor at 3202 Glendale boulevard, she announced today. She is making elaborate alterations at this address before going into business.

Glendale Girl Is Head Of New Theatre Cast

The cast of "Icebound," the Lexington Players' initial production which will open at the Playhouse of the Tuesday Afternoon club next Monday evening, will be headed by Marie June Jones and Roy Gordon. Miss Jones, who is a resident of Glendale, has appeared on the stage in Los Angeles and Seattle while Gordon has appeared in The Little Theatre of New York.

Fred Warrington is production manager of Glendale's new theatre, Theodore Bliss is directing the production and Jacques Darcy is art director. "Icebound," which is from the pen of Owen Davies, will run for six nights.

Degrees From U. S. C. For Glendale Quartet

Miss Agnes Brown, Harold Thelin, Victor E. Francy and Stanley E. Cairncross of Glendale, seniors at the University of Southern California, will receive their bachelor of arts degrees Thursday when commencement exercises will be held in Exposition park. Dr. R. B. Von Kleinschmidt, president of the university, will confer the degrees.

Sunday afternoon the baccalaureate sermon was held in the Coliseum at Exposition park. The ceremonies Thursday, at which 1050 graduates will receive honors, will be open to the public, and will begin at 4:30 o'clock, the academic procession to leave the campus an hour earlier.

Supply Good Music At Senior's Annual Dance

Music for the Glendale Union High school annual senior dance, which will be held Saturday night at Oakmont Country club, will be furnished by Bill Hatch's Oakmont Country club orchestra. Dancing will begin at 8 o'clock. The affair is being given by Glendale Alumni association, and is in charge of Walter Beach, president.

DELEGATES OFF FOR KIWANIS GATHERING

Southern California Sends Representatives To Big Meet At St. Paul

By M. D. DAVIS
Of The Evening News Staff.

SANTA FE STATION, PASADENA, June 17.—In a few minutes the fourteen-car Kiwanis special, bound for St. Paul and the International Convention of Kiwanians, will be here. Delegates and visiting Kiwanians are ready, while friends and members of their families are assembled here to say good-bye, and to bid them God speed on their trip to the convention city.

Awaiting the train here are representatives from practically every club in Zone 3, comprising Eagle Rock, Huntington Park, Burbank, Tujunga, Montrose-La Crescenta, Lankershim, Van Nuys, San Fernando, Hollywood and Glendale as well as a large delegation from Pasadena.

Numbered in the Glendale delegation, are: President and Mrs. Frank L. Fox, their niece, Miss Alice Merritt Fox, Dr. and Mrs. T. C. Young, Delegates A. L. Baird and M. D. Davis. Burton McGinnis, secretary of the Glendale club, expects to join them in St. Paul after a short visit in St. Louis. He will arrive in St. Paul with the St. Louis delegation of Kiwanians.

Joining in with all the 1385 Kiwanis clubs in the United States and Canada, all of which will convene simultaneously, the Kiwanis club of Glendale will meet with the other clubs of Zone 3 in holding a special session in Eagle Rock, for the observance of "All Kiwanis Night." This meeting will be held at the Masonic temple on Monday, June 22, at 5:40 p. m.

Ideals of Meeting

At this time the opening session of the annual Kiwanis International convention will be held at St. Paul, Minn. The meetings throughout Canada and the United States are to be observed for the unified consciousness of devotion to the ideals and objectives of Kiwanis.

All clubs have arranged the time of their meetings so that the "zero hour," when 94,000 Kiwanians on the continent assemble to observe the "Fellowship Moment of Silence," will be simultaneous with that in the convention city.

Message To Be Read

The message to the clubs by President of Kiwanis International Victor M. Johnson of Rockford, Ill., will be read by District Governor Dr. John P. Buckley, of Hollywood. This is the second time in the history of Kiwanis that such a meeting will be held. Last year when the international convention convened at Denver, a similar observance marked the opening of activities.

Kiwanians A. L. Baird and Merrill D. Davis from the Glendale club are delegates to the convention and will send telegraphic messages to the meeting Monday night from convention headquarters. President Johnson's keynote speech at the convention's opening will be broadcast from station WCCO, the powerful station of the northwest, and will give members and radio fans an opportunity to listen in.

Daily Greeting to News Readers

ONE BOY IS WORTH—
Enough to justify any father's personal sacrifice.
More than this year's profits on any business.
The time it takes for any man to be a big brother.
Enough to warrant the city buying up some ground for playgrounds.
Many times more than the cost of any Sunday school.
More than the furniture in any parlor.

ALL ABOARD FOR THE TROPICS

The human race is migratory. Away back before the dawn of history the records in caves and burial mounds indicate that man moved from place to place, seeking more abundant water and food and better living conditions. Over three hundred years ago the white race braved the dangers of the Atlantic to settle on the western continent. Since that day the cry has ever been, "Westward, Ho," and we have come in great numbers to the very shores of the western sea. As the slang phrase of the day has it, "Where do we go from here?" Moving on in the same direction, we come to the place from which the human race started, an area already densely overpopulated. There is no hope for us there. From now on, when the white man migrates, he must go in a different direction.

Free land in this country is about gone, and, with our rapidly-increasing population, it is predicted that the time is coming when our sources of food supply will be entirely inadequate. Whether or not we are facing a real danger in this respect, the white man is at heart a pioneer. He is not content to remain at rest; he must be exploring and conquering the forces of nature.

The Modesto Herald prophesies that before long the white man will migrate to the tropics and that great tropical empires will soon become realities. We have always looked longingly toward the equator. Nature is lavish there and the land is of inexhaustible fertility. But there is so much to be overcome before the tropics can be made habitable for the white race—hostile natives, wild beasts, poisonous reptiles and swarms of insects.

But man can subdue the forces that make the tropics uninhabitable, as was proved by General Gorgas and his triumph over the disease-infested area of Panama; by the British on the Gold Coast of Africa, where native farmers, working under the direction of the white man, are rolling in wealth, and have captured the cocoa trade of the world; and in the Malay peninsula, where the crude rubber trade has been developed.

In this connection it is interesting to read that the National Geographic society is showing increasing interest in the tropics, especially tropical America, which this society believes can be turned to better practical account than the polar regions. In South America is an area about the size of the United States, unexplored and unsettled by civilized man, except along the coast and main watercourses, enormously productive and presumably unpopulated, save by a few Indian tribes; a vast jungle of 6,000,000 square miles. This land is described as too productive. The superabundance of vegetable life makes it almost impossible to clear and keep clear. The story is told of a party of men who spent six months in the interior, and when they came out their faces were bleached to a prison pallor. Never under a man-made roof the whole time, they had been cut off completely by the jungle mat from the sun for the entire six months.

Twelve months of summer, abundant rainfall, bottomlessly rich soil, a fight with nature. This is enough to appeal to the sons of the American pioneers.

TAXATION WITHOUT REPRESENTATION

California is not the only state concerned with reapportionment of legislative districts. Nearly every state which contains a large city is dealing with the same question, so there is much interest in the way Chicago, or rather, Cook county, Illinois, is attacking the problem. Cook county commissioners claim that the principle involved is taxation without representation, and they believe the methods pursued by the colonists years ago should be effective today.

A few days ago, Cook county commissioners refused to turn over to the Illinois state treasurer the state's share of the county tax. The treasurer will sue the county, and, since a federal constitutional principle is involved, we shall all be interested in the outcome.

Like California, Illinois was districted for legislative purposes long before its big city had attained anywhere near its present population, and, of course, Cook county was given fair representation at Springfield at that time. But Chicago has grown out of all proportion to the balance of the state; nearly half the people of Illinois reside in Cook county; and they pay more than half the state taxes; but their representation in the legislature has never been increased. As in California, rural members of the legislature, who heavily outnumber city representatives, have repeatedly turned down reapportionment, at the same time admitting that the law was against them.

Now Cook county claims that by violating the constitution, which the legislature does not and cannot deny, that body has invalidated itself, and so the commissioners repudiate taxation imposed and laws made by an illegal body. It is likely that this will reach the supreme court in Washington soon, and if it does it is hard to believe that the decision could be adverse to Cook county. And, in case Chicago wins, there will be a revolution in the matter of legislative redistricting in every state where there is a large city.

It may not be for the best interests of all the people that the city should dominate the entire state, but it is certainly fairer than having a small minority in the rural districts dominate the large centers of population, and having our state legislatures knowingly and admittedly violate the constitution they swear to uphold.

MOB RULE

Fresno county farmers are suing the county for damage done to farms, orchards and vineyards whose owners refused to sign up their crops with certain co-operative organizations. Co-operative marketing organizations are proving of benefit to the farmer but they have no more right than a private corporation to try to coerce an individual or to enforce their demands by intimidation or destruction of property. When they do so they constitute a mob and when peace officers permit mob rule their dereliction to duty is so obvious as to call for impeachment. This is a free country and no man should be compelled to join any organization, and he is entitled to protection from a mob no matter what his offense may be.

ARABIAN NIGHT'S ENTERTAINMENT

The Garden and the Porch

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Americans, and especially those who live on Main street, are front porch people.

They like to sit out exposed to the view of the passerby and have no objections to the world looking in on them.

When you go into older countries, for instance into Spain and Italy, you find few front porches.

On the contrary, you find patios, or gardens, around which the house is built.

The garden is concealed from everything, but it is open to the sky. You get outdoors and also privacy—two things which usually do not go together.

There are times in a man's life when privacy seems to be a necessity. The world is too much with us. It gets on our nerves. We want to get by ourselves and think things out.

This privacy is in nowise disturbed by the view upward. The stars enter into every man's calculation and they do not disturb his meditation.

On the contrary he cannot have the privacy he seeks without being shut off from the world. Hence the essential part of a garden is a wall or barrier of some kind between one's self and other people.

Being open to the sky is like keeping the soul open to God or to those influences which come to us from the sky. There is something peculiarly individual in the spiritual help we get from above. There is nothing that disturbs us when we can own a bit of outdoors which is enclosed from other people. What with our telephone and radio and other means of communication the world is altogether too present with us and the soul needs that isolation from time to time which it can only find in a garden.

A garden is better than a room because it has no ceiling. Nothing but infinity is above it. And that sense of infinity comes down to water the soul.

Some day I intend to build a house. And when I do it will be a series of rooms around a garden or patio. I will have my own retreat, not from the infinite, but to the infinite. There I shall gather what messages and inspirations!

I have lived in rooms all my life and I feel the effect of them. I want to live a little while without any roof over my head.

Horoscope

Although Venus is in benefic aspect early today, this is read by astrologers as an unfortunate rule, for Uranus, the Sun and Saturn are all adverse.

Women should be especially cautious at this time, for they may be unusually inclined toward public activities, and may be easily deceived.

This is not altogether lucky as a wedding day. Lovers may be inclined to deceive one another.

While the stars presage extraordinary interest in romance and lovemaking on the part of persons of every age this is a most dangerous sway under which to make any marriage or engagement contract.

It is not an auspicious direction of the stars for any line of employment-seeking and all who desire to obtain good positions should defer effort until a more helpful planetary rule.

Saturn afflicted today may accentuate nervous restlessness and poise should be attained before any matter of importance gains attention.

Electrical inventions are to multiply at this season of the year, but while aviation is to command extraordinary attention this is not an auspicious day for taking any risk in testing or experimentation.

Here is a sign read as inclining men to be exceedingly critical of women and for many causes, especially for taking any sort of initiative in lovemaking.

Much unemployment may be evident in certain parts of the country all through the summer, it is foretold, but this will be due to local and not general causes, it is asserted by astrologers.

Women and children, who have been subject to an unfortunate rule for some time, will continue to be victims in many crimes, and warning is given to safeguard homes.

Increase of the mentally unfit to carry on ordinary affairs of life is to be one of the growing problems as long as Uranus has evil power, it is forecast.

Persons whose birthdate it is should avoid speculation and new enterprises in the coming year. Success is indicated to those who devote attention to business or professional work.

Children born on this day probably will be well-conducted and reliable. They may not like business but should be carefully trained in practical matters.

Today's Poem

LIKE BARLEY BENDING

Like barley bending
In low fields by the sea,
Singing in hard wind
Ceaselessly;

Like barley bending
And rising again,
So would I, unbroken;
Rise from pain;

So would I softly,
Day long, night long,
Change my sorrow
Into song.

—Sara Teasdale.

"You'd think the present alarming state of Europe would convert our pacifists, but there's a lot of them still knocking about. When they talk their pacifist doctrines to me I tell them an anecdote.

"Suppose, my dear,' said a little girl's Sunday school teacher, 'suppose a bad boy should strike you, and the next day you should give him an apple. Now, what do you think the bad boy would do then?'

"He'd strike me again, of course," said the little girl, "to get another apple."

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNAIRD

CLARK KINNAIRD

Philosophers of this age, parroting the thoughts of philosophers of other ages, teach us that it is the object of the state to promote the moral aims of mankind.

But is it?

The aim for which mankind exists (a parabolic expression, it has been remarked), these good gentlemen tell us, is that a man should act in such and such a manner.

The real aim, Schopenhauser contends, is that "the Will, of which every man is a complete specimen, should turn whither it needs to turn; that the man himself (the union of thought and will) should perceive what this will is, and what horrors it contains; that he should show the reflection of himself in his own deeds in the abomination of them.

"The State, which is wholly concerned with the general welfare, checks the manifestation of the bad will, but in no wise checks the will itself; the attempt would be impossible.

"It is because the State checks the manifestation of his will that a man very seldom sees the whole abomination of his nature in the mirror of his deeds."

Does the reader suppose there are no people in the world as bad as Loeb and Leopold, or other murderers? Does he fail to see that there are many who would act like them if only they could? Then Schopenhauer tells him:

"Many a criminal dies more quietly on the scaffold than many a no-criminal in the arms of his family. The one has perceived what his will is and has discarded it. The other has not been able to discard it, because he has never been able to see what it is.

"The aim of the State is to produce a fool's paradise, and this is in direct conflict with the true aim in life, namely, to attain knowledge of what the will, in its horrible nature, really is."

Thus speaks, Schopenhauer super-realist. Life was not to him a matter of sweetness and light. It is natural that he is unpopular. Man dislikes to be told that he wouldn't be so vain if he really knew himself.

Who's Who

The signing of the pact of "inviolability of the Rhine" by France and Great Britain again brings the Rhineland district into the limelight. Under the terms of the pact Great Britain agrees to send its army and navy to France's aid in case of any aggression by Germany. Belgium and Germany have yet to ratify the four power pact.

Because of his position as military governor of the Rhineland, Sir Charles Furgusson has rendered valuable services in the recent negotiations in the matter of data concerning conditions existing there.

General Fergusson was named military governor of the occupied area in 1918. He is a veteran of many campaigns. He saw service in the Soudan, suffering severe injuries and being mentioned five times in dispatches under fire.

He served as brigadier general on the general staff and in command of the Irish forces, 1907-08.

During the world war he commanded the Fifth division and subsequently the Second and Seventeenth army corps. He was mentioned seven times in dispatches for his bravery and leadership.

He was born in Edinburgh, Jan. 17, 1865. He is the seventh baronet of Kilkerran.

KNOWS HUMAN NATURE

There's one woman in town who knows human nature. She was riding on a car with a friend. They were discussing their mutual acquaintances, and in such a tone of voice that the passengers on the car were beginning to feel that they, too, knew them.

Said the one with the red hat and the green coat: "I'd like to know what Martha's 'sore' about."

"How d'you know she's sore?" asked the one who wore the plaid stockings.

"Well, if she ain't 'sore,' why'd she come over last night and bring back every last thing she'd borrowed in the last six months?

THREE GLENDALE GIRLS GRADUATE

Pomona College Diplomas Issued Trio From Here; Relatives Present

Glendale claims three of the graduates who received diplomas at commencement exercises Monday evening at Pomona college, Claremont, Miss Evelyn Shaw of 212 West Park avenue; Miss Josephine Hervey of 1820 Colina drive, Verdugo Woodlands; and Miss Millicent Josephine Alvord of 318 West Broadway.

Judge and Mrs. Shaw and their son Lucien and daughter, Miss Dorothy, attended commencement festivities in Claremont. Miss Dorothy, who graduated last year from Pomona, is now studying law. Lucien, who was a student the past year at Deane's school, Santa Barbara will attend Glendale High school next year. Miss Evelyn is to teach in Glendale city schools during the coming year.

Chooses Teaching

Mrs. Hervey accompanied by her two other daughters, Helen and Browning; her sister and niece, Miss Pauline Parsons and Miss Marion Parsons of Santa Ana; and her brother-in-law, W. R. Hervey of Los Angeles, also attended the commencement events in Claremont. Miss Hervey will enter the teaching profession.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Alvord were also among those entertained in Claremont during commencement. Miss Alvord will teach in Glendale city schools during the coming year. She arrived home from college today.

Defies Death

AL WILSON, appearing in 'The Cloud Rider' at the Cosmo theatre.

In this age of aeronautics, when the phenomenal growth of sky traffic holds one spellbound, it is only fitting and proper that an air picture should take its place among the present day thrillers in celluloid. F. B. O. has made "The Cloud Rider," starring Al Wilson—the famous aeronaut—and supported by Virginia Lee Corbin, Helen Ferguson and an all-star cast, now showing at the Cosmo theatre.

"The Cloud Rider" did not employ fake photography to put over its thrills. Mr. Wilson, noted for years for his death-defying stunts with the plane, seems to defy even gravity, and gets away with it.

SEEKS INJUNCTION

LOS ANGELES, June 17.—Mayor J. L. Bacon and civil and peace officers of San Diego city and county were made defendants in temporary injunction proceedings in federal district court here by Louis M. Favorite, who asked the court to suspend the operation of an anti-gambling ordinance adopted in San Diego, May 21, which, he charged, interfered with operation of his 260 slot machines. The ordinance, Favorite contended, deprived him of his constitutional rights.

MANY LAUGHS IN NEW DIX VEHICLE

Stirring Fights Mark Scenes In Mountains Of Spain In 'Too Many Kisses'

Better than "Manhattan!" That's what Paramount claims for Richard Dix's new starring picture, "Too Many Kisses," which will be the feature at the Gateway theatre today only with select vaudeville.

There were a lot of laughs in "Manhattan," but there are more in "Too Many Kisses."

There were good fights in the former, but they don't come up to the battle Dix and William Powell put up in this latest picture.

The picture has a most colorful background—a little Spanish town in the Pyrenees where Dix goes to search for turidium, a valuable mineral of which little is known.

He meets and falls in love with the beautiful Yvonne, a part played by Frances Howard, and forgets all about what it was his father sent him abroad for.

Licks Whole Trio

William Powell has the role of Julio in the picture. He also is in love with Yvonne and Dix has to beat him up, along with a couple of his knife-throwing henchmen, before he is convinced that it is bad business to interfere where the American's heart is engaged.

Paul Sloane, who made Dix's second starring picture, "A Man Must Live," directed the production, which was adapted for the screen by Gerald Duffy from John Monk Saunders' story, "A Maker of Gestures," which ran in Cosmopolitan magazine.

Frank Currier, Joe Burke, Paul Panzer and others appear in the strong supporting cast.

Drama

Wanda Hawley in "Let Women Alone," opening today at Glendale theatre; comedy situations outstanding.

"Let Women Alone," the film that opened today at the Glendale theatre is an adaptation by Woods of Viola Brothers Shore's Saturday Evening Post story, "On the Shelf," and revolves about an elderly woman and her son, an insurance salesman. Throughout her life the mother has dreamed of a leisure that her limited circumstances would never permit until her children have gone out into the world and made their mark.

After they have transplanted her from her country home and into a life of ease she becomes restless. There is no work for her to do and time hangs heavy on her hands. Finally, without the knowledge of her son, she obtains work as companion to the three-year-old daughter of a widowed interior decorator. Eventually she is the indirect cause of a romance springing up between her son and her employer.

The story is rich in drama and replete with comedy situation, and the cast is an unusually good one. Ethel Wales plays the part of the mother, Pat O'Malley is the son and Wanda Hawley the interior decorator. Others in the cast are Wallace Beery, J. Farrell MacDonald, Harris Gordon, Margaret Morton, Lee Willard and Betty Jane Snowden. Paul Powell directed.

The new building of the company will cost $4,000,000. The company figures on a gain of 54,000 telephones in greater Cleveland by 1929.

LOS ANGELES

By Southland News Service.

LOS ANGELES, June 17.—Considerable stir in Los Angeles circles over President Coolidge's views on the Colorado river development was noted today. Officials, as well as civic representatives, were quick to respond that early action, as the chief executive proposes, is essential in not only controlling the flood, but developing a water supply for the metropolitan area. There appears to be a conflict of opinion on the development of power, however, between local Boulder canyon dam advocates and the national administration.

In a statement issued today, District Attorney Asa Keyes gave high praise to Deputy E. J. Dennison, who materially aided in wringing a confession from Dr. Thomas W. Young, wife-slayer, other aides already having received congratulations for their part in solving the "science murder."

Employes of the Ford plant here will be given vacations if they attend the summer camp of the National Guard air unit in Griffith park, it was reported by Major C. C. Moseley, commanding the unit.

Los Angeles has started its drive for $145,000, sought as part of a $5,000,000 endowment fund for the American Legion, to carry out a national program of caring for widows and orphans of World war service men.

Dr. Remsen DuBois Bird, president of Occidental college, and Mrs. Bird have left their Eagle Rock home for a trip to Europe. They will return in September.

Secretary Glenn D. Willaman of California Real Estate association, accompanied by Mrs. Willaman, and a delegation of Southern California realtors are leaving tonight for San Francisco to join a special train carrying 200 Californians to the national realty convention in Detroit.

John Bull Is Worried By 'Drys' From States

PLYMOUTH, England, June 17.—Surprised to learn that England was aroused for fear their coming meant an attempt to convert "merry old England" to prohibition and "tickled to death" to learn that some elements were worried over their visit, 125 American temperance advocates arrived aboard the Seeland today. They are delegates to the W. C. T. U. convention at Edinburgh.

"We are not coming here to attempt to make England dry," said Mrs. Ella Boole, secretary of the delegation, "but merely to tell the convention what we know of prohibition, that it's the greatest thing of the century.

"American women are happier now than they ever were before prohibition. We are going to tell the convention some things. We are not nosey; we are not looking for trouble. But if Great Britain is worried over the message we bring, then we're tickled to death."

Rum Chaser Captures Boat And Rich Cargo

SAN FRANCISCO, June 16.—Capture of a forty-foot rum boat said to have been carrying 150 cases of liquor valued at $10,000, was reported here today when the rum chaser 262 arrived in port after a night's patrol off the Golden Gate. The rum boat's crew of three men were arrested. Their names would not be revealed by the commander of the patrol boat.

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

REDUCING BREADS

Yes, if you follow the directions that come with "reducing" breads you will reduce.

I recently sent for a loaf of a certain brand of reducing bread. The loaf weighed one pound.

The directions as given by the concern are as follows:

1. Eat one-half loaf a day of this reducing bread.
2. Eat no other bread, rolls, crackers nor pastries of any sort.
3. Avoid fattening foods—those heavy in sugar, starch and fats.

Now do you see why you will reduce by eating this bread AND following the instructions? Eat no other breads, crackers, pastries or fattening foods! Do you see what this means? You do, I know. You cut down your calories markedly. You take less than your maintenance; therefore you reduce. You won't reduce if you don't follow instructions.

A pound loaf of any bread is approximately 1200 calories. One-half loaf would be 600 C. You can eat the same amount of any bread—white, bran or others—and reduce just as rapidly, if you follow the directions given with the reducing bread. And instead of its costing you 35 cts. to $1.00 a loaf, it will cost you 12 cents to 15 cents.

I deplore false education broadcast, teaching that any food or combination of foods will in itself cause a reduction. There is no food that is not fattening if it happens to be in excess of your needs. Some foods are less fattening than others—much less—because they are lower in calories or energy value.

Do you know how to reduce with benefit to your health and looks—and pocketbook? (I'm speaking to new readers—my old ones know!) We have the instruction in a little booklet which you may have for the request accompanied by a self-addressed, stamped envelope and ten cents in stamps (to cover printing and handling). 'Tis said to be worth its weight in diamonds! I believe it myself.

Answers to Correspondents

RHEUMATIC PAINS

Miss G.—There is something wrong somewhere along the line to cause your knees to ache so terribly and to cause a drawing pain in your thighs.

How about your tonsils? Rheumatic pains in the young are often preceded by diseased tonsils, and rheumatism, especially in the young, is not a light thing.

There is some toxemia (poisoning) circulation in the blood and depositing itself in your knees. Whether it is the absorption of poisons from the intestinal track from putrefaction, from diseased tonsils or teeth or a focus of infection elsewhere in your body, is the province of your physician to find out. Please see him or her.

You say you sleep on your back and that you do not sleep well. Sleeping in this position does seem to produce uncomfortable dreams. Don't do it.

How about your diet? Are you getting your vitamins, mineral elements, proteins and sufficient energy foods?

You might try the electric pad and other hot applications; exposing the knees to the direct sunlight is good.

I think our articles on Constipation and Intestinal Putrefaction will help you. A self-addressed, stamped envelope is required for any material we offer.

Mrs. A.—Will you send for the booklet on Tuberculosis?

Tomorrow—Answers to Correspondents.

My Dear Followers:—When sending for material which we offer you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible; if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s.a.s.e. if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

To my mind there is only one way to can tomatoes—and that is whole. This is the one and only vegetable which may be put up in the following manner:

Select firm, ripe tomatoes and lower them into boiling water in a cheese-cloth bag, for from one to two minutes; then plunge the bag into cold water for an instant, to loosen the skins. Rub the skins off with your fingers, and also remove the tomato cores by means of a sharp, slender- bladed knife.

Pack these whole, skinned tomatoes into hot jars, on their sides in a pan of cold water (the water covering them). Also place the jar-caps in the pan. Heat the water to the boiling point and let it continue to boil around jars and covers for 15 minutes, then drain the glassware and keep it hot, by means of wrapping in towels wrung out of hot water, till you are ready to fill the jar with the tomatoes.

After packing the tomatoes, add one teaspoon of salt to each quart-size jar and fill the jar with boiling water to within one-fourth inch of top. Put on new rubbers which you have dipped quickly in and out of boiling water, adjust glass covers, and put top wire up and also press down side wire. This completely seals the jar. But tomatoes contain so much acid that they present a different case.

The next step is to stand the filled and completely sealed pars on a wooden or wire rack in the bottom of your wash boiler, in boiling water to cover them. The water must have been boiling briskly up to this moment. But as soon as you put the jars into it, move it back to the unheated part of the range, or take it off the range entirely. It should be covered. Do not touch it for six hours, or until the water around the jars is entirely cold. Then remove jars, label and store.

Tomatoes canned in this simple way are not, of course, quite as firm as ripe tomatoes when the can is opened. Yet I have often used them for a sliced tomato salad in the dead of winter, right from the jars. And they do not shrink.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Lucas of Fort Worth, Texas, left Monday morning after spending the week visiting the latter's brothers, T. A Rucker of 1012 South Adams street, and E. E. Rucker of 355 West Burchett street. They came to Southern California to attend the Shrine convention.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Smith of Santa Ana, spent the week end in Glendale, visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Stahlberg of 215 West Park avenue and the former's mother, Mrs. Jennie Adams, who resides at the corner of Lexington and Isabel street. Mrs. Smith was formerly Miss Helen Stahlberg.

Miss Dorothy Gilson, of Pasadena, teacher of Latin and French at Glendale High school was a guest Tuesday night of Mr and Mrs. James F. McBryde of 524 West Burchett street. Miss Gilson is leaving Friday for Denver, Colo., to attend her brother's wedding and later will go to Europe for the summer.

Donald Cramston, student at California Military Academy, Los Angeles, returned home Monday to spend the summer with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Donald Cramston, 332 North Kenwood street. Miss Margaret Northcote Cramston will arrive Friday from Seattle, Washington where she has been a student at University of Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Johnson of 802 East Windsor road left Monday on the Kroonland for New York, via the Panama Canal. They will visit a daughter, Mrs. Cortland Betts at Summit, New Jersey, and will be away three months. Mr. and Mrs H. E. Lange, their son-in-law and daughter of 623 South Glendale avenue, will occupy their home during their absence.

S. S. Shogren of 548 West Broadway has moved to 1370 Lincoln avenue.

Mrs. J. E. Cornell and her daughter, Mrs. O. E. Summers of 662 West Arden avenue, and Miss Frances McCool of Los Angeles spent last week at the Glen ranch located in the San Bernardino mountains. They returned home Sunday night.

Mrs. E. J. Sullivan of the Lexington Arms apartments, returned to Glendale yesterday after an extended visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Nangle in Butte, Mont. Miss Irene Duncan of Helena, Mont., accompanied Mrs. Sullivan back to Glendale, and will visit here for a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Sacre, who recently became residents of Glendale, spent Monday visiting their former home city, Pomona. They were guests of Mrs. Sacre's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Sydney E. Boyd. Mr. Sacre was prominent in the Pomona Elks lodge.

Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Brandstater of 401 West Wilson avenue have as guests Mrs. Frank Osborn and daughter, Mrs. Nita Rickarts of Greenspring, Ohio. The guests, who have been attending the convention of the National Music federation of Oregon, are now en route home, with a party of easterners traveling in a special car. The visit is particularly happy, for Mrs. Osborn and her daughter were neighbors of Mrs. Brandstater's mother.

FALLEN ARCHES

That very uncomfortable affliction, fallen arches, is almost always the result of wearing the wrong sort of shoes. Shop girls suffer most from it because of their long hours of standing. Few shops have learned that the most efficient employee is the rested one, therefore few shops provide sufficient stools for the girls to sit down on. The fallen arches are partly due to the girls themselves, for most of them wear high heeled shoes all the time which are fatal to the feet.

There is only one thing to do if you have fallen arches—go to a good chiropodist, or, if there is not a good one near you, to your own doctor and ask advice. You will have to wear arch supports. There are several varieties made so that they can be adjusted to the foot as it improves; these are flexible so that the foot has perfect comfort with them. Once you have arch supports perfectly adjusted you will be amazed at the greater comfort of your feet. You will feel years younger and a great deal happier, and certainly much more energetic. Indeed it is quite likely that the mysterious backaches you may have suffered from have been nothing but the result of fallen arches, for the nerves of the body are so in sympathy with one another that an ache in one place will start half a dozen in other parts of your body.

Wear shoes with moderately broad toes and heels not more than an inch high. When you are in your bedroom kick off your shoes and walk in stocking feet tiptoe around the room. This is a splendid exercise for strengthening fallen arches, also for developing the calves of the legs. Each time after your bath massage the feet and ankles; this strengthens and makes them shapely. Binding the feet and ankles as the picture suggests is excellent when they are very tired an achey.

Worried:—Continue using the hair tonic. Also build up your general health as the nervous system has a great deal to do with causing the hair to turn grey prematurely.

As your hair is brown you could tint the stray hairs by having a henna shampoo, and it would change the natural shade of your hair. Of course, this process merely tints the conspicuous hairs so that they are no longer noticeable, but the henna will neither hurt your hair nor your health, and is advisable to use under such circumstances.

Try This Treatment

Tomorrow—A Blackhead Paste

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Social .·. Clubs

Edited by KATHERINE V. SINKS

For New Members

An interesting affair took place yesterday afternoon at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse, members who have joined during the past year, being special guests at an informal reception, arranged by the calling committee, of which Mrs. C. A. Brandstater is chairman. The affair was given to afford new members opportunity to become acquainted with each other and with the heads of the various departments of the club. Mrs. Brandstater was the gracious mistress of ceremonies, introducing Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, club president, who gave a greeting of welcome. She urged new members to affiliate with one or more of the club departments, which she declared to be offering wonderful opportunities for every club woman.

Mrs. Brandstater then presented Mrs. Weyland Wood, curator of the Bible department; Mrs. H. S. Garlinghouse, literature department; Mrs. H. C. Vandewater, drama department; Mrs. D. E. Baxter, representing Mrs. Roy A. Ballagh, fine arts department; Mrs. W. F. Macpherson, Maids' and Young Matrons' department; Mrs. W. W. Wilkinson, representing Mrs. Roberta T. Young, music department; Mrs. W. H. Verity, parliamentary law department; Mrs. L. E. Richardson, representing Miss Ida D. Myers, American citizenship and legislation department. A message was given from Mrs. James Farrell, curator of the arts and crafts department. Later a program was given, including, selections by an orchestra, Kenneth Allan, Glen and Kenneth Brandstater and Ruth Swanson; readings by Mrs. G. Edwin Murphy; songs by Mrs. Retta K. Nelson, accompanied by Mrs. A. Bell Johnson, and readings by Mrs. McQuatters. The program was followed by the serving of tea.

My Hair Was Quite Gray
"My hair was gray. It was falling out. My scalp itched and dandruff appeared. A few applications of Kolor-Bak stopped the itching and dandruff. My hair soon stopped falling out and now is again its original shade. I look ten years younger."
(A typical letter)

Don't Worry about Gray Hair

This Clean, Colorless Liquid Will Restore the Original Shade

Thousands of people have quickly banished grayness and have restored the original shade to their hair with the remarkable preparation known as Kolor-Bak.

Physicians and scientists know that gray hair is hair that has ceased to receive its normal supply of coloring matter or pigment from certain tiny cells in the scalp because these cells have become inactive. No matter what the cause, it is amazing to see how the grayness disappears when Kolor-Bak is used. It is the best known substitute for the natural pigmentation. It also banishes dandruff and stops itching of the scalp and falling hair. If you are gray, Kolor-Bak is all you need to make your hair look "young" again. No need to furnish a sample of your hair—no tests to make—as this one clean, colorless liquid is effective on any gray hair. Money back instantly if Kolor-Bak is not satisfactory.

GLENDALIAN IN SHADOW OF PYRAMID

Lon J. Haddock Writes About Sheiks of Egypt; Sees Royal Sarcophagus

Lon J. Haddock, prominent Glendale realtor, tells readers of The Glendale Evening News about the sheiks of Egypt, in another interesting travelogue, written in the shadows of the pyramids. Other travelogues by Mr. Haddock will follow:

By LON J. HADDOCK
Written for The Evening News.

Here we are at last in the shadow of the pyramids, and off there a half mile to the southeast, gently flows the tranquil Nile!

Somehow this experience strikes into a person more than any other incident of our long trip. To actually be in the very presence of the mighty pyramidal tombs of which we have read and seen pictures from the days of our earliest recollection, and to gaze into the inscrutable face of the mysterious Sphinx gives one a decided thrill, then later to go right into the heart of the greatest pyramid of them all and to stand in the crypt where reposed for three thousand years the body of King Cheops (Fuga), is experience enough for any one day, and one never to be forgotten.

Sunday morning dawned bright and beautiful as we were steaming up the Red Sea in the shadow of Mount Sinai. The Catholic archbishop of Manila, and the bishop of Jara were aboard our vessel, and it seemed particularly fitting that they should weave their Sunday morning service—which was held on the open deck aft—from the story of the remarkable deliverance of ancient Israel, while we could look out to where Sinai frowned down upon the awful sun-scorched desolation at its base.

Arrive At Suez

Sinai is in very deed the "abomination of desolation." It is one only, and a not very prominent one at that—of several peaks that emphasize the jagged contour of a long range of dolomite mountains without a sign of vegetation anywhere.

Monday morning we arrived at Suez, and the launch carried us ashore for a three days' stay while the ship proceeded through the canal to be rejoined by us later, at Alexandria. After an unconscionably long and unnecessary delay passing through the red tape which the incompetent Egyptian government has manufactured—quarantine inspection, customs inspection, etc., etc., both upon entering and leaving the country—a procedure that is not met with in any other country we have visited—and which, through the good offices of Joseph Gardner, of Lambert Bros., Ltd., we finally negotiated, we eventually fought our way clear of the clamorous hordes of Arabian "Shrieks" who had vociferously "come down like the wolf," in an endeavor to separate us from our money, and were able once more to breathe the fresh air of heaven and collect our battered wits.

Follow Old Trail

We had been warned previously of the danger of attempting to drive by auto from Suez to Cairo, but we wanted the thrill of such a drive over the old Arabian mail trail, and we did it. The old ruins of the thirteen outposts established by Napoleon, in the days of his ascendancy, still stand, and these together with an occasional straying Bedouin on his faithful camel, were the only objects to break the monotony of the journey. The balance of the journey is just low desert hills and sand.

Cairo is an odd mixture of decency and bedlam. It boasts several splendid hotels, and the principal part of the city where European influence prevails is truly beautiful. But the shouting and yelling, and particularly the blatant squawking of auto horns creates a perfect bedlam, that makes sleep impossible, and furthermore appears to be entirely unnecessary. But Egypt is Egypt! and peoples and peoples' manners change but slowly, and sometimes—never.

Peculiar Customs

The Moslem part of the city is typical of most Moslem centers—the little, narrow, twisting crowded alleys that serve for streets, and the motley throng that distributes itself through them. Here an Arab in fez cap and long, dirty gown, marches proudly ahead of his small band of sheep with a wisp of fresh-cut lucern carried in his hand as a bait; there another zigzags his way through, herding a flock of geese; a third carries his assortment of big round cakes, looking like overgrown doughnuts, on his head; dirty, sticky children dart hither and yon, while push carts, head trays, portable fruit stands, Arabs on camels, big Moslems sitting far back on diminutive donkeys, and pedestrians of both sexes, and of all sizes, shapes, and colors, push, jostle, and wrangle with one another through the busy marts.

Picturesque is the word that describes Cairo! It is different from any other place. Funny little shops and quaint Arabian mud hamlets contrast with the beautiful minarets and domes of the great and artistic mosques. And always in the near background, rising in solemn grandeur against the sky—solemn, majestic, sublimely awe-inspiring, are the pyramids and the Sphinx.

The centuries have rolled, victors and vanquished of a hundred races have come and gone; old faiths, old civilizations have risen, flourished, and decayed in turn; Buddha, Christ, Mahomet, Confucius—all rose but yesterday when compared with these monuments of time and antiquity. And there they stand today, as impervious to the wear and tear of time and weather as in those far-distant days when the slaving hordes of the Pharaohs toiled out their pitiable lives by thousands in the effort that finally wrought out these massive piles.

Pyramids Are Near

Contrary to our expectations the pyramids are not way off in the desert; they are practically right in Cairo. That is, the great pyramids of Giza are. The distance is approximately ten miles, while Memphis, the ancient capital of Egypt, with its pyramids and ruins is about twice that distance from the city.

A beautiful auto road bordered with fine shade trees leads directly to the Mena House hotel, right at the base of the great pyramid of Cheops. The pyramids and the Sphinx crown one of a series of small sand hills that rise to the west of the city. The auto bowls its way right up to the base of Cheops and stops and immediately bedlam breaks loose. The Egyptian government licenses fifty-two Arabs as outside guides, inside guides, and camel and donkey drivers.

The regular tourist travel stops about May 1, and we, therefore, were slightly "out of season," and every Arab was on the job. Fortunately we had engaged the services of a dependable dragoman, in the person of Abd-El-Samia-Aly, of the Savoy-Continental hotel at Cairo, (jot down the name if you are thinking of visiting the pyramids), and after the customary shouting and wrangling the "shouting and the tumult" finally dies and we are seated on our camels ready for the big jaunt.

Riding Desert Ship

A camel is not a difficult mount and you soon get accustomed to the easy, swinging, ship-like lurch and so we journeyed leisurely along in the eastern shadow of Cheops. At our left is a wire enclosure wherein the Harvard expedition has recently unearthed another ancient tomb which promises to add much to our present day knowledge of the ancient Egyptians, although at present it is not accessible on account of the precarious condition of the tunneling.

As we proceed the fine "salesmanship" of the camel-man comes into play. Will we buy an ancient coin "found right in the pyramid," and bearing upon closer examination the insignia of Constantine of Rome? Or do we not desire to have our future revealed as written by his finger in the sands of Egypt? or any one of a thousand things which his ingenuity conjures up to induce the visitor to part with his "backsheesh."

Fifteen minutes by camel brings us to the Sphinx, and we gaze in awe and wonder at his inscrutable and somewhat battered countenance. A great hollow has been scooped out of the sand in order to disclose its or her base, rather, for it is supposed to be a she having the head of a lady and the body of a winged lion. Somehow the picture of Napoleon standing in its shadow a century ago, plotting further mischief, rose before my fancy. And now Napoleon and his self-made dynasty are but history and my lady Sphinx chalks up one more risen and fallen civilization, and goes complacently on with her knitting.

Graves Near Sphinx

Close by the Sphinx, in fact at its very base, is the ancient Granite Temple wherein the bodies of the sovereigns were prepared for burial and the rites for them performed in those "good old days." Now a worn and bespattered priest takes you through their various recesses illuminating the darkness with small magnesium flares, always for a "consideration."

Returning to the big pyramid we made ready to enter. The door is at the north side, exactly in the center and about fifty feet from the ground. You clamber up over the immense stones from which the pyramid is made, and, with an Arab in front and one in the rear of each visitor, you begin the ascent through the inky darkness. Occasionally you come to a small breathing place—not a breathing place of air, but a place high enough to permit you to straighten up your back, for the entire ascent is made in a stooping position, on account of the low ceiling of the passageway.

After two or three short, twisting deviations the guide in front finally trikes up his flare and you are in the crypt of Cheops. Here you are squarely in the heart of this great monster edifice. The measurements are exact and it is two hundred twenty-two and one-half feet to the top, the same distance to the base, and an equal distance—though not the same as these figures—from where you stand to any other point of the pyramid.

Royal Bodies Gone

A few dozen feet below is the crypt of the queen. Both sarcophagi are empty, however, and it is yet one of the mysteries of Egypt what became of the royal bodies.

Many and various theories have been advanced in explanation of how the ancients got those huge stones, out of which the pyramids are made, into place. The latest and simplest explanation is that a huge causeway was built upon the sand from the Nile, down which the stone had been floated, cut and ready for placement, from the quarries at Karnak, and this causeway was raised from time to time as the building progressed. That is, the causeway was but an incline over which the slaves dragged the building, a stone at a time, to their destined place.

We came out again in the evening, to watch the moon rise over the pyramids and the Nile, and there, at the feet of the Sphinx, we conversed in muffled tones of the glory that was once Egypt, and wondered where we ourselves would be three thousand years from now.

Italy Is Next

We returned to Alexandria by train, through a wonderful agricultural section, directly in the bed of the Nile, enchanted by the quaint dress and customs of the people, and went directly to our ship which was already preparing to get under way.

We are now passing along the west coast of Italy. Already this morning we have passed Aetna and Stromboli, and tonight we will be in the shadow of Vesuvius. We leave the ship at Naples for a short jaunt through Europe, and will sail from Liverpool for home.

BURBANK NEWS

BURBANK, June 17.—The Greater Burbank association, an organization fostered to fight proposed annexation of Burbank to Los Angeles, has opened headquarters at 240 East San Fernando road. Officers include W. A. Blanchard, president; W. P. Coffman, secretary and L. H. Boydston, chairman of the campaign committee.

L. H. Boydston has been elected president of the Burbank Optimist club to succeed H. P Kirk, who recently resigned. William Stroud was named sergeant at arms to succeed Boydston. Paul Martin has been appointed chairman of the membership committee by Boydston and L. H. Taylor head of the finance committee.

The Burbank Municipal league has been organized here for the avowed immediate purpose of campaigning for referendum propositions on the ballot June 30, and to use its influence against voting Burbank into Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Lucas of Salt Lake City and their four daughters have left for their home after a week's visit with relatives here. They expect to return in January to invest in Burbank property.

Miss Ina Mildred Green, kindergarten teacher at the Luther Burbank school for the past three years, has announced that she will be married July 5 to Norman M. Cupp of Taft.

The HOUSE Of The ARROW

A SERIAL STORY WRITTEN BY A. E. W. MASON

Protected By The McClure Newspaper Syndicate

He had been dawdling over the locks and the drawers, as though time meant nothing to him at all. He now swung briskly back into the center of the room, making notes, it seemed to Frobisher, of its geography. The door opening from the corridor faced, across the length of the floor, the two tall windows above the garden. If one stood in the doorway facing these two windows, the bed was on the left hand. On the corridor side of the bed, a second smaller door, which was half open, led to a white tiled bath room. On the window side of the bed was the cupboard in the wall about the height of a woman's shoulders. A dressing-table stood between the windows, a great fireplace broke the right hand wall, and in that same wall, close to the right hand window, there was yet another door. Hanaud moved to it.

"This is the door of the dressing-room?" he asked of Ann Upcott, and, without waiting for an answer, pushed it open.

Monsieur Bex followed upon his heels with his keys rattling. "Everything here has been locked up, too," he said.

Hanaud paid not the slightest attention. He opened the shutters.

It was a narrow room without any fireplace at all, and with a door exactly opposite to the door by which Hanaud had entered. He went at once to this door.

"And this must be the communicating door which leads into what is called the treasure room," he said, and he paused with his hand upon the knob and his eyes ranging alertly over the faces of the company.

"Yes," said Ann Upcott.

Jim was conscious of a queer thrill. He thought of the opening of some newly discovered tomb of a Pharaoh in a hillside of the Valley of Kings. Suspense passed from one to the other as they waited, but Hanaud did not move. He stood there impassive and still like some guardian image at the door of the tomb. Jim felt that he was never going to move, and in a voice of exasperation he cried:

"Is the door locked?"

Hanaud replied in a quiet but a singular voice. No doubt he, too, felt that strange current of emotion and expectancy which bound all in the room under a spell, and even gave to their diverse faces for a moment a kind of family similitude.

"I don't know yet whether it's locked or not," he said. "But since this room is now the private sitting-room of Mademoiselle Harlowe, I think that we ought to wait until she rejoins us."

Monsieur Bex just had time to remark with approval, "That is very correct," before Betty's fresh, clear voice rang out from the doorway leading to Mrs. Harlowe's bedroom:

"I am here."

Hanaud turned the handle. The door was not locked. It opened at a touch—inwards toward the group of people and upwards towards the corridor. The treasure-room was before them, shrouded in dim light, but here and there a beam of light sparkled upon gold and held out a promise of wonders. Hanaud picked his way daintily to the windows and fastened the shutters back against the outside wall. "I beg that nothing shall be touched," he said as the others filed into the room.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN
SIMON HARLOWE'S TREASURE-ROOM

Like the rest of the reception rooms along the corridor, it was longer than it was broad and more of a gallery than a room. But it had been arranged for habitation rather than for occasional visits. For it was furnished with a luxurious comfort and not overcrowded. In the fawn-colored panels of the walls a few exquisite pictures by Fragonard had been framed; on the writing-table of Chinese Chippendale by the window every appointment, inkstand, pen-tray, candlestick, sandcaster and all were of the pink Battersea enamel and without a flaw. But they were there for use, not for exhibition. Moreover a prominent big fireplace in the middle of the wall on the side of the hall, jutted out into the room and gave it almost the appearance of two rooms in communication. The one feature of the room, indeed, which at a first glimpse betrayed the collector, was the Sedan chair set in a recess of the wall by the fireplace and opposite to the door communicating with Mrs. Harlowe's bedroom. Its body was of a pale French grey in color, with elaborately carved mouldings in gold round the panels and medallions representing fashionable shepherds and shepherdesses daintily painted in the middle of them. It had glass windows at the sides to show off the occupant, and it was lined with pale grey satin, embroidered in gold to match the color of the panels. The roof, which could be raised upon a hinge at the back, was ornamented with gold filigree work, and it had a door in front of which the upper part was glass. Altogether it was as pretty a gleaming piece of work as the art of carriage-building could achieve, and a gilt rail very fitly protected it. Even Hanaud was taken by its daintiness. He stood with his hands upon the rail examining it with a smile of pleasure, until Jim began to think that he had quite forgotten the business which had brought him there. However, he brought himself out of his dream with a start.

"A pretty world for rich people, Monsieur Frobisher," he said. "What pictures of fine ladies in billowy skirts and fine gentlemen in silk stockings! And what splashings of mud for the unhappy devils who had to walk!"

He turned his back to the chair and looked across the room. "That is the clock which marked half-past ten, Mademoiselle, during the moment when you had the light turned up?" he asked of Ann.

"Yes," she answered quickly. Then she looked at it again. "Yes, that's it."

Jim detected or fancied that he detected a tiny change in her intonation, as she repeated her assurance, not an inflexion of doubt—it was not marked enough for that—but of perplexity. It was clearly, however, fancy upon his part, for Hanaud noticed nothing at all. Jim pulled himself up with an unspoken remonstrance. "Take care!" he warned himself. "For once you begin to suspect people, they can say and do nothing which will not provide you with material for suspicion."

Hanaud was without doubt satisfied. The clock was a beautiful small gilt clock of the Louis Quinze period, shaped with a waist like a violin; it had a white face, and it stood upon a marquetry Boulle cabinet, a little more than waist high, in front of a tall Venetian mirror. Hanaud stood directly in front of it and compared it with his watch.

"It is exact to the minute, Mademoiselle," he said to Betty, with a smile as he replaced his watch in his pocket.

He turned about, so that he stood with his back to the clock. He faced the fireplace across the narrow neck of the room. It had an Adam mantelpiece, fashioned from the same fawn colored wood as the panels, with slender pillars and some beautiful carving upon the board beneath the shelf. Above the shelf one of the Fragonards was framed in the wall and apparently so that nothing should mask it, there were no high ornaments at all upon the shelf itself. One or two small boxes of Battersea enamel and a flat glass case alone decorated it. Hanaud crossed to the mantelshelf and, after a moment's inspection, lifted, with a low whistle of admiration, the flat glass case.

"You will pardon me, Mademoiselle," he said to Betty. "But I shall probably never in my life have the luck to see anything so incomparable again. And the mantelshelf is a little high for me to see it properly."

Without waiting for the girl's consent he carried it towards the window.

"Do you see this, Monsieur Frobisher?" he called out, and Jim went forward to his side.

The case held a pendant wrought in gold and chalcedony and translucent enamels by Benvenuto Cellini. Jim acknowledged that he had never seen craftsmanship so exquisite and delicate but he chafed none the less at Hanaud's diversion from his business.

"One could spend a long day in this room," the detective exclaimed, "admiring these treasures."

"No doubt," Jim replied dryly. "But I had a notion that we were going to spend an afternoon looking for an arrow."

Hanaud laughed.

"My friend, you recall me to my duty." He looked at the jewel again and sighed. "Yes, as you say, we are not visitors here to enjoy ourselves."

HOW TO SOLVE THE CROSS WORD PUZZLE

The way to solve the Cross Word Puzzle is to fill in the white squares of the diagram with the words which agree with the accompanying definitions. The definitions are numbered to correspond with the numbers on the diagram.

Any word defined in the text under "HORIZONTAL" will begin at its number, shown on the diagram, and will extend all the way across to the first black space to the right of that number. That is, the word must begin in the square that contains its identifying number, and extend as far as the white squares continue uninterruptedly.

Any word defined under "VERTICAL" will also begin in the white space that contains its number, but will extend downward as far as the white spaces remain uninterruptedly.

UNCLE WIGGILY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Copyright, 1925, By The McClure Newspaper Syndicate

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE RAG DOLL.

Once upon a time, as Uncle Wiggily was hopping across the fields to look for an adventure, and when he was wondering whether or not the Fox or Wolf would try to nibble his ears, all of a sudden the bunny rabbit gentleman heard a most doleful, or sad and sorrowful, voice crying from a patch of weeds.

"Oh dear! Oh dear! Oh dear!" sighed the sad voice. "I'm all alone! Nobody loves me! Nobody cares for me! What is the use of living!"

Mr. Longears stopped short in his tracks and raised his head. His pink nose was twinkling very fast, as it always did when he was excited or thinking.

"I wonder what that is?" said the bunny to himself. "It can't be the Fox, nor yet the Wolf, for the patch of weeds is too small to hide them. Still it might be the wily Weasel. I had best be careful."

But again the voice cried: "Oh, dear!" and then the wind blew aside the weeds and Uncle Wiggily saw lying on the ground, an old rag doll. The doll wore a ragged dress, but this was as it should be, for she was a rag creature. But worse than that was the fact that one of her shoe button eyes had fallen off her face. And her nose and mouth, which were painted on her cloth face, had almost dissappeared.

"Oh, you poor creature!" cried the bunny gentlman, picking up the rag doll. "What happened to you?"

"Well may you ask that," sighed the rag doll. "I used to be owned by one of your little rabbit girls—Jingle by name," went on the forlorn creature.

"Doesn't Jingle like you any more?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"I'm afraid not," sighed the doll. "She left me out in the rain, which washed away most of my painted nose and mouth, so I can hardly talk, as you notice. Then she carried me upside down and one of my shoe button eyes caught in a briar bush and pulled out. Then Jingle threw me away and here I am! Oh, dear!"

"Don't feel so badly," said Uncle Wiggily. "I am going to make you beautiful again—that is as beautiful as any rag doll."

"Are you really? How?" asked the poor, forlorn creature.

"I'll show you," said the bunny gentleman.

He took the old rag doll home to his hollow stump bungalow. All the little bunnies were at school, and Nurse Jane and Mrs. Longears had gone to the movies. Uncle Wiggily searched until he found the button bag of Nurse Jane. There were no black shoe buttons in it, but there was a white one, and this he sewed on the doll's face alongside of her nose.

Next, with some paint from one of the color boxes of the children bunnies, Mr. Longears made a lovely nose and mouth on the face of the rag doll. The rain had made the corners of the old mouth droop in a sad way. On the new mouth the bunny turned the corners up, smiling like, and the nose too, had a jolly, saucy little tilt to it. And as for the eyes, well, please believe me, with one white and the other black, there was such a comical look on the rag doll's face you couldn't help laughing. Even the rag doll laughed at herself when she looked in the glass.

And when Jingle came home from school with the other bunnies, and saw the doll Uncle Wiggily had made over, Jingle cried:

"Oh, a new rag child! Where'd you get her, Daddycums?"

"That's your old doll that you threw away in the weeds," said the bunny. "If I give her back to you, will you love her?"

"Truly I will, for ever and ever," cried Jingle. And just then the Bob Cat came around the house and tried to jump and nibble Uncle Wiggily's ears. But the rag doll saw the bad chap with her new, white shoe button eye, which could see a long way.

"Look out, Uncle Wiggily—beware of the Bob Cat!" cried the rag doll. So the bunny gentleman jumped into his bungalow just in time, with Jingle and all the other little rabbits, and locked the door.

"Fooled again—and by a rag doll!" howled the Bob Cat as he slunk away, and every one in the bungalow laughed at him. But if the ice cream cone doesn't turn upside down and spill all its lemonade out down the back of the rocking chair, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the ugly stump.

CROSS WORD PUZZLE FOR YOUNGSTERS

HOW TO SOLVE PUZZLE

The words start in the numbered squares and run either across or down. Only one letter is placed in each white square. If the proper words are found each combination of letters in the white squares will form words. The key to the puzzle—the first word—is given in the drawing. Below are keys to the other words.

Running Across

Word 5. A point of the compass. Abbreviation.
Word 7. Heavenly.
Word 8. Into.
Word 9. Otherwise.

Running Down

Word 2. What the blacksmith uses.
Word 3. Part of a horse's harness. Plural.
Word 4. A short poem that can be set to music.
Word 6. A beverage.

MONTROSE NOTES

MONTROSE, June 17.—Members of the Montrose-La Crescenta Kiwanis club held their regular weekly luncheon Monday at the Oakmont Country club, when Burdette Moody, secretary of the Boulder dam project, gave a talk on facts and figures of the project. Dr. E. L. Wemple, program chairman for this week, presented Mrs. R. Q. MacDonald and Mrs Imogene Smith. Mrs. Smith sang "What's the Use of Sighing?" and "Garden of Tomorrow.". Mrs. MacDonald, who accompanied the singer, gave as instrumental solos "Song of India," by Rimski Korsokoff, and "Spanish Dance," by Robyn.

Legionnaires are busy selling tickets for the benefit dance to be given Saturday night at the Sparr Heights Community house proceeds of which will be used in the building of the new post home on the corner of Fairview and Rosemont avenues.

Special services for Children's day were held at the Montrose Community church on Sunday, when the children of the Sunday school presented the program, each class having part in the exercises.

Big May Output for Ford and Chevrolet

DETROIT, June 17.—Figures for the Ford output in May show 182,627 cars and trucks; 10,000 tractors and 775 Lincoln cars produced and the company has been running on a similar schedule for June. The Chevrolet factory shipped 52,853 cars in May. Retail sales were 48,176. The company started this month with unfilled orders for 30,709 cars.

BOY DESTROYS CITY

ROME, June 17.—The little city of Rika, in the Province of Lubino has been almost entirely destroyed by fire. About three hundred houses constructed partly of wood, together with the synagogue, were devoured by the flames.

The disaster came about because a little boy of five years got hold of a box of matches and, playing with them, started the fire. The loss of property was large.

GET HISTORIC TREES

SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 17.—Willows from the birthplace of Joan of Arc, at Domremy, France, and oak trees from Sherwood Forest, the rendezvous of Robin Hood and his band of merry outlaws, will grow on the grounds of the New York State College of Forestry as the result today of gifts to the institution by Professor Nelson C. Brown, of the Hill College, and Professor John S. Donald, of the University of Wisconsin.

FORMAL NOTE FOR MEXICO IS READY

Ambassador Is Backed by U. S. With Demand for Better National Spirit

By H. K. REYNOLDS
For International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—The Mexican situation came before the cabinet for discussion by President Coolidge and his advisers.

At the same time it developed here that the formal note which Secretary Kellogg plans to send to Mexico probably will be held up until the return of Ambassador James R. Sheffield to Mexico City.

Sheffield is now in New England but he will return to the capital for additional conferences with government officials before going back to assume his duties in Mexico. If nothing occurs in the meantime to warrant earlier action, it is possible that Kellogg's note will be carried personally by Sheffield for delivery to the Mexican foreign office or he will be instructed to express to the Mexican government in a formal manner, the statements made to the press by Kellogg.

Requests Slighted

Some of the matters which Kellogg touched upon—payment of claims for land seizures, for instance—already have been taken up with Mexican officials by Ambassador Sheffield, along with his protests from time to time against attacks on Americans and the nationals of other countries which the United States has been representing diplomatically in Mexico.

Sheffield has not been satisfied, however, either with the replies he has received from the Mexican foreign office or the attitude of Mexican foreign officials toward the carrying out of what the ambassador regarded as ordinary international obligations.

In other words, Sheffield did not believe that some of his official representations had received the consideration that should have been granted to notes and memoranda from the government of the United States.

Thus it became necessary, in the view of Secretary Kellogg with the facts before him to approach the problem from a new angle—and the statement of last Friday was the result.

Backs Ambassador

President Coolidge and his secretary of state now believe that it has been made plain to President Calles that the Washington government stands squarely behind Mr. Sheffield and that his communications are to receive the same consideration as those emanating direct from the state department. With that matter settled it will be he policy of the administration to handle the Mexican situation in a spirit of the greatest possible friendliness but insisting always that American lives and interests must be protected and that Mexico must discharge her other international obligations.

Official silence on the Mexican situation continued to be observed after the cabinet meeting It was stated at the White House that there were no developments which the president could discuss for publication.

Amundsen and Route of Dash to North Pole

The course followed by Roald Amundsen in his dash to the North pole is shown in the map. He and his party went through the Arctic ice to King's Bay, Spitzbergen, by boat and then the two planes, carrying six men, jumped off for the goal. The explorer is seen on skis in his latest picture from the north. Scientists are divided over whether the exploring party is lost. Some say the party is in no great danger; others assert an immediate search is necessary.

NEW PLAN IN BOY SCOUT VACATIONS

Each Troop to Have Own Camp; Boys Will Do Their Own Cooking

No more will Boy Scouts of Verdugo Hills council spend their summer outings at far distant points at some big camp with hired chef and other luxurious facilities, and away from the supervision of their own scoutmasters. A new policy for summer camping has been adopted by the Verdugo Hills council which includes Glendale, Eagle Rock Burbank, Montrose, La Crescenta Tujunga and other troops. Hereafter they will spend the vacation in one of several comparatively nearby camps, one troop in possession of a camp and with their own scoutmaster in charge Last year Catalina island was the scene of their outings.

The new plan has been announced by Scout Executive H. R Cheesman. It was undertaken only after approval being given by the national scout executive One of the main reasons for adopting this idea was that it will enable the scoutmasters to be with their troops and so increase their hold on the boys.

Camp Sites Chosen

Six attractive camp sites have been selected near Seven Oaks Big Bear, Arrowhead and at Jackson's lake in the Sierra Madres. Beginning Monday the boys will go by troops every second day to the camps for two weeks' stay.

Cheesman will accompany each troop to camp and stay overnight to get camp life started The boys will do their own cooking, under supervision of the scoutmaster, using a balanced menu list. Camp equipment costing $300 and including pup tents, stoves, etc., has been bought.

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

Again voters of Glendale have demonstrated apathy in civic issues, it is revealed by total figures of yesterday's bond elections.

While the city school system fared well in getting its new building program approved by little more than the necessary two-third majority vote of less than 20 per cent of the total electorate, defeat of the $173,000 issue for additional sites can be attributed to the fact that only a mere handful of people in favor of the proposition went to the polls.

Defeat of the Memorial Hall bonds, while undeserved, perhaps, in the view of the patriotic organizations affected, reminds the writer that this is not the first time similar schemes have fallen through, both here and elsewhere.

Of course, all these things may be reasoned out. Parents felt that proper housing facilities for their children was imperative. They went to the polls and voted for more than a million dollars' worth of improvements. But they were not so much interested in the future location of school sites. And many more simply ignored the Memorial Hall ballot, because they were not personally interested as were the veterans of America's wars.

The construction of several school buildings, as well as alterations and repairs, will add materially to Glendale's 1925 building total which has passed the $4,000,000 mark, with more than six months of prosperity ahead before the books are closed for the year.

Good schools beget better homes. Development of residential districts depend a great deal on the proximity of schools, as well as churches, stores and other essentials to complete community life.

Glendale wants to be surcharged with optimism for the opening of the Pacific Electric subway this fall and the opening of the Hotel Glendale for tourists, among other factors, are going to give greater impetus than ever before to "the fastest growing city in America."

With schools closing, vacation season is at hand. Families and their motorcars, packed to running boards, may be seen on the highways all hours of the day and night.

"Seeing California" is a good idea. The more you see of this state and its great agricultural, mineral and industrial possibilities, the more satisfied you will be of the future prosperity of your own section.

Much has been said about California's boasting. But when you stop and consider that it raises more raisins than the wide world can eat, that it has two millions of acres suitable for cotton which brings premium prices because of quality, that the citrus crop alone brings upward of a hundred million dollars annually, that the scenic and climatic conditions make possible the production of another hundred million dollars in motion pictures, that the silver, copper, gold and oil bring almost countless millions more, while the fisheries add another $13,000,000 to $20,000,000 to our wealth each year, not to mention the cattle, sheep, dairy products, vegetables, grain and lumber, among other things—

When you get out in your car and see all that, and meet the cavalcade of 200,000 tourists seeing California, you will appreciate what a firm foundation this writer has in predicting permanent prosperity and greater prosperity than ever before.

BOYS TO URGE FOREST FIRE PREVENTION

Scouts To Canvass Every Home In City To Ask Aid To Preserve Timber

Boy Scouts of Glendale will join actively in the state-wide Scout campaign to prevent forest fires in California timberlands and watersheds during the coming summer. Scouts will canvass every home in Glendale seeking pledges to assist in the work of preventing fires in the mountains.

Under the auspices of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, cooperating with the California Development association, the Scouts will circulate the following pledge, to be signed by all good citizens as an evidence of their intention to prevent forest fires this year:

"To save growing forests for growing children, I agree to do my best to keep fire out of California's watersheds this summer."

Use 5,000 Pledges

Five thousand pledge cards will be circulated in Glendale, the original to be given to the signer and a duplicate to be kept on file by the California Development association.

The scheme to forestall destructive forest fires by urging caution on the part of the public was advanced when representatives of every chamber of commerce in Southern California met with the development association officers at Los Angeles last Saturday. Ray C. Fairall, chairman of the fire prevention committee of the Glendale chamber, who attended the meeting, will have charge of the work locally.

Give Scouts Prizes

Prizes for the Scouts who secure the most number of pledges will be offered by the Chamber of Commerce. In addition there will be a special prize offered by Percy J. Hayselden, former chairman of the fire committee, and state awards made by the development association.

Cash prizes ranging from $2 to $10 will be offered by the chamber. Mr. Hayselden will furnish a trip to the Y. M. C. A. camp at Catalina to the Scout making the best record in Glendale.

SPEND $2,000 PER MINUTE ON POWER

Electrification for Next Ten Years National Problem, Delegates Are Told

By MILLER HOLLAND
For International News Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 17.—The light and power industry of the United States will need to raise money at the rate of $2,000 a minute every minute for the next ten years.

This was the statement made here by Franklin T. Griffith of Portland, Ore., president of the National Electric Light association, before the first general session of the forty-eighth annual convention of the organization.

"It will take $10,000,000,000 to meet the financial requirements of the industry during the coming decade," Griffith said, "and this stupendous task presents one of the outstanding problems of the industry.

"Today," he continued, "the capital invested in the electrical industry exceeds $7,000,000,000, and it is being augmented at the rate of $1,000,000,000 annually, in round figures."

Business generally throughout the United States is booming, according to opinions expressed by leaders of the electrical industry attending the convention.

Following are some of the expressions given International News Service:

General Guy Tripp, chairman of the board of directors, Westinghouse Electric Co., New York:

"Business conditions generally are good and in the electrical line they are excellent."

M. S. Sloan, president of the Brooklyn Edison Co.:

"Put me down as a 'bull' for the United States. Business is in splendid shape everywhere—in the city and in the country."

James E. Davidson, president of the Nebraska Power Co., Omaha, Neb.:

"Generally speaking, business throughout the country is in a very favorable way. Of course in some sections conditions are better than in others but as a whole the outlook is encouraging."

Martin J. Insull, president of the Middle West Utilities Co., Chicago:

"Business is moving right along with conditions as a whole better than reasonably good."

Hoover Will Talk

Two cabinet officers are scheduled to address the convention. Secretary Herbert Hoover of the department of commerce, will speak tonight on superior power and public regulation of utilities

On Thursday Secretary William M. Jardine of the department of agriculture, will discuss the electrification of agriculture.

Considerable activity is being developed by Atlantic City and Philadelphia delegates for the honor of being host to the association at its next annual convention.

Election of officers will take place Friday, the closing day of the meeting.

By royal decree, fire extinguishers are to be placed in all public places in the Canary islands.

PASTOR WINS DEBATE ON EVOLUTION

Argument With Scientist One Of Many Phases Showing Public's Interest

By BEN G. KLINE
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925

SAN FRANCISCO, June 17.—A scientist and a preacher held a public argument on the truth of evolutionary theory here Saturday night and the preacher won. Monday night, however, the same scientist debated with another minister on the question of whether evolution should be taught in the public schools and won—the decision, both official and popular, being that such subject matter should be taught.

The debates were but one of many reactions in this community to the Tennessee case and are indicative of the widespread interest attached across the continent to the "monkey trial."

Other reactions have been statements by pastors, educators and scientists, cartoons and editorials in the press, letters to editors and skits in the theatres. Even a little envy has been exhibited by Californians that the southern state should have been first to think of such a fine advertising stunt.

In the debates, open to the public and well attended, the scientist was Dr. Maynard Shipley, president of the Science League of America, whose argumentative instinct had been aroused by articles in a religious weekly supporting the Tennessee lawmakers and court. The first night his opponent was the Rev F. D. Nichol, one of the editors of the religious publication, and the second night it was the Rev. A. L. Baker, the other editor of the same paper.

Decision on Merits

Shipley failed to prove to the satisfaction of three eminent jurists that "the earth and all life upon it are the result of evolution," but he had the scientific satisfaction of knowing that the judges' decision was based upon the merits of the arguments presented and not on the probability or truth of the Darwinian theory. He had the further satisfaction, however, both scientific and personal, the second night of winning the decision when he argued that the teaching of evolution should NOT be barred from tax-supported schools.

No holds were barred and sarcasm and ridicule waxed hot, especially in the final contest. The minister said since evolution was opposed to religion it was as much out of place in the school as is the Bible. The scientist replied that if evolution were barred then the fundamentalists should attempt to bar astronomy, physical geography and ancient history.

The minister ridiculed the "divine right" of scientists to say what should be taught. The scientist argued that it was left to doctors to say what should be taught in medical schools and to lawyers what should be taught to law students.

When the minister charged that evolutionists were divided among themselves and working at cross purposes the scientist replied that with 206 brands of the Christian religion in the United States slight contradictions among scientists should not worry the fundamentalists.

Rabbi Favors It

While the decision was awaited Rabbi Louis I. Newman of Temple Beth Emanu-El, arose to challenge anyone to debate the issue with him. "I believe," he said, "that the anti-evolutionist is an enemy to America and to truth."

As definite as this is the conclusion of the Rt. Rev. E. L. Parsons, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of California. "There is no difference between the trial of the Tennessee professor and that of a heretic by the inquisition," he declared in a signed article shortly before the debates. "It abjures the fundamental spirit of Christianity, which is love, and substitutes for it denunciation and persecution."

Professor Is Hero of Town In Tennessee

DAYTON, Tenn., June 17.—John T. Scopes, high school professor, who has set the tongues of the scientific and religious worlds awagging by teaching evolution to his classes in the local high school, has assumed the role as the "man about town."

All eyes are focused on Scopes when he makes his appearance on the streets. When he stops on the sidewalk to converse with some friend or happens into Robinson's drug store for a soda, he is a veritable human magnet and immediately collects an audience.

Residents of Dayton are proud of their young professor, who suddenly has sprung into nation-wide notoriety, and whose trial here next month for violating the Tennessee anti-evolution law will draw some of the most brilliant men of the nation, as well as hundreds of men and women prominent in scientific and educational work.

As a token of their respect and admiration for him they are feting him with banquets and entertainments, both private and public. Scopes is spending most of his time, however, closeted with his attorneys, who are working out plans for his defense.

TEACHERS HONORED

At the close of the regular teachers' meeting at Wilson Intermediate school Monday afternoon, the teachers were served refreshments of ice cream and cake, made by the girls of the cooking department, under the direction of Mrs. Ethel R. Baker, and Misses Mabel Nisbit and Ruth Dorn.

Railroad rates in Rumania have been raised thirty per cent.

TWO DEAD IN POISON PLOT, THREE ILL

Police Probe Mystery Deaths After Report Of Threats Received In Letters

LOS ANGELES, June 17.—With two persons, a mother and father, already dead under mysterious circumstances, authorities today launched an investigation of a reported plot to poison an entire Los Angeles family.

Those dead are John F. Cashwheeler, an oil field worker, and his wife Mary, who died suddenly following poisoning, the nature of which has not been determined.

Varis, 20, a son, was reported seriously ill from a similar poison and another son and daughter of the Cashwheelers were reported less seriously affected.

Received Threats

A chemical analysis of the vital organs of the dead couple has been ordered.

Cashwheeler, it was reported by the police, recently received threatening letters and telephone calls.

WIN CHAMPIONSHIP

The championship inter-class indoor ball at Wilson Intermediate school was won by the A8-2 boys. Of twenty-four games played, they won twenty-one, tied one, lost two. This team won the championship last year also, when they were A7. Walter Hilton is captain and 1b.; David Chasse, c.; Harold Stancliff, p.; Teddy Edwards, 2b.; Edgar Blue, ss.; Milan Plasterer, 3b.; Elbert Beach, lf.; Howard Dunn, cf.; Bill Knight, rf.

Returns To Glendale After Vacation Trip

Dr. J. Warkentin of the Marlenee Optical Co. has just returned to Glendale from an extended vacation trip to Salt Lake City. Dr. Warkentin expresses his delight in returning to Glendale and could only say that to really appreciate the city you had to go elsewhere to secure the proper contrast.

The fame of the "fastest growing city in America" had preceded him on his eastern trip, Dr. Warkentin said, and he was asked numerous questions about Glendale. This summer will see unusually heavy travel to the Pacific coast, he said, and the majority of coast visitors are coming to Southern California.

New Members Sought As Convention Nears

Mrs. W. E. Evans attended the meeting yesterday at the Alexandria hotel, Los Angeles, of the committee on arrangements for the all-day convention next Tuesday of the Republican Women's Federation of California, southern division. Mrs. Evans states that everything is in readiness for the opening of the convention at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning. As for the apportionment of delegates, she states that outlying clubs will have one delegate for every fifty members. The presidents of all clubs are automatically delegates.

Mrs. Evans is anxious that the membership of the Republican Women's Study club of Glendale be increased to 100, and urges any women desirous of joining to attend the meeting next Monday afternoon at Central Christian church. If they are unable to attend they may become members by telephoning any officer or member and sending their dues. They will become charter members of the local club and state federation.

England, Japan and Java have the most densely populated areas in the world.

HOLD PIANO RECITAL

Piano pupils of Nettie B. Campbell will appear in recital Thursday night at 8 o'clock at the Van Grove Music salon, 337 North Brand boulevard. Artist pupils of Vernon Spencer of Los Angeles will assist in the program.

Visitors From North Entertained In City

Herman Fuelsher of San Francisco, accompanied by his son, Robert, and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Henry Fuelsher, have been guests for the past week of Mr. Fuelsher's brother, A. H. Fuelsher and family of 622 North Isabel street. With their hosts the visitors have been enjoying many motor trips since their arrival, having visited Venice, Santa Monica, Long Beach, Corona and Riverside. The three guests and Mrs. A. H Fuelsher left Saturday for San Diego, remaining over the week end, and visiting Tia Juana. They were joined Sunday by A. H. Fuelsher and daughters, Misses Annie and Alice, who returned home the same day, while the other members of the party remained over until Monday night. The guests from the north expect to return home the last of this week.

Women's Club To Hear U. S. District Attorney

S. W. McNabb, United States district attorney is to address the Glendale Republican Women's Study club at the meeting at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, June 22, at Central Christian church. Mrs. Ella W. Richardson, president, will be in the chair. Musical features will be by Edith Sinclair Lemon, soprano, accompanied by Mrs. E. R. Ripley.

Many of the club members are planning on attending the convention Tuesday, June 23, at the Alexandria hotel, Los Angeles, of the Republican Women's Federation of California, southern division. Reservations for the convention luncheon can be made with Mrs. Richardson.

SUMMER SCHOOL

Summer school will open Monday, June 22, at Wilson Intermediate school with Miss Annie F. Johnson and Byron Wesner, as instructors. Misses Ruth Williams and Lorene Fritch, will be in charge of the classes at Glendale Intermediate school.

Contracts have been let recently for the electrification of the railway in the vicinity of Prague, Czechoslovakia.

HULI TRUCKS AND POSTOFFICE PLAY

Mailmen Score Run In Fifth When Whitley Steals Third And Home

By A. S. HALL
Of The Evening News Staff.

After the smoke of battle had cleared away yesterday at Broadway High school grounds, the score in the Twilight league game between the Postoffice and the Huli Trucks was: Postoffice, 1; Huli Trucks, 11. The mailmen's lone score came in the fifth inning when Whitley, running for Weger after Weger poled out a double, stole, in rapid succession, third and home.

The Huli Trucks had seven men on the diamond for the first inning, eight for the second and a full complement in the third. C. Jensen started on the mound for the truckmen, and hurled until Johnny Cryan showed up, when Johnny took up the pitching burden in the third inning. Richards went the route for the mailmen.

Weger collected two of the four hits the mailmen were credited with, a single in the third and a double in the fifth. Richards got a single in the second, and Rye connected in the fifth for a single, but went out at third trying to stretch a single into a triple.

This afternoon the Calla Lily team will meet the Public Service crew. Tomorrow the Postoffice team appears against the Christian church, and Friday the Huli Trucks and the Radios do battle.

DOWN GO GIANTS

In one of the wildest finishes ever seen at Forbes field, the Pirates pulled out a ten inning decision over the Giants 13 to 11 on a pass to Cuyler, Barnhart's triple, Traynor's double and Wright's homer, after the Giants had tied the score in the ninth and taken a two run lead in the tenth. It was the fifth straight defeat for the Giants.

JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, June 17.—The New York Yank management has resolved to trade, exchange, barter, or in any other way possible clear out certain undesirables who have tried to make the management a joke to shield their own failings as ball players.

For two years there has been friction on the team to some extent, the result of a feeling on the part of some of the players that Babe Ruth was allowed carte blanche in his way of conducting himself, while others were made to walk a straight and narrow plank.

This spring in Florida, more than ever before, some of the players were frankly outspoken against Ruth. They did not quarrel with him in the open, but they wanted to know why he had been lionized, and had been running around dog races and similar shows when he was in Florida for training.

Ruth did not go very well in St. Petersburg. He did not do much batting and the good folk of St. Petersburg were not keen for his bohemianism. When he came to bat in the first big game and in the second big game and even other games, there was not a hand raised in applause. He failed to hit home runs until late in March. Then he began to get some recognition from the crowds.

There have been four players on the team who have rebelled always at Huggins' authority and directions, although he knows more baseball in one minute than two of them in a day. One of the players was traded during the winter. Another is a young pitcher whose egotism has nearly ruined his physical ability. His conceit is terrific and his actual knowledge of baseball the reverse. Instead of being the best pitcher in the United States, or one of the best—because he has been endowed physically with the very best pitching equipment—he has been so headstrong that he has run into more reefs than harbors.

The club has secured Koenig of the St. Paul team who will surely displace some infielder in 1926. The St. Paul man is coming along at a great clip and the Yanks have been fortunate to get him.

The pitching staff will be combed through and backward. The pitchers can't strike the gait and the question is whether they have reached their limit, or have struck one of those seasons which all pitchers have at times when they seem unable to stop batting, no matter what they try.

The infield has slowed up appreciably. Some of the players laid it to Scott, and talked Scott until he was finally put on the bench although he can play ball fully as well as his critics. It is a question whether the team has improved one iota by giving Scott a vacation, because at least he was playing ball for the love of it and with all that he had in him.

The management gambled one year too long with the club but it was a perfectly natural mistake in view of the fact that the Yanks did so well in 1924. And on top of that came the collapse from over-indulgence of Ruth whose breakdown was wholly unexpected.

Had he been in condition, the Yanks might still have had their troubles, although like others of the team, he may have reached his zenith in baseball and be headed with the majority who walk the other way.

RUTH HITS THIRD

Our Mr. Ruth got his third homer of the campaign, but the Tigers beat the Yanks, 5 to 3, thanks to Whitehill's commendable pitching. It was the ninth game this season the Yanks have failed to carry a winning streak beyond two games.

RED SOX WIN

The wind carried Flagstead's fly ball away from the fielders and in consequence the Red Sox beat the White Sox 2 to 1, in a real old-fashioned pitchers' battle between Ehmke and Robertson.

THIRTY READY IN TENNIS TOURNEY

Preliminaries For Big Event To Be Held; Enthusiasts Urged To Take Part

Tennis enthusiasts of the city are invited to enter the annual Glendale tennis tournament, the preliminary events of which will be played on the Glendale Union High school courts, the Patterson park courts and three private courts on June 27 and 28. The tournament is being sponsored by Glendale Community Service and the city high school. All residents of the district who are interested in this sport are eligible to take part.

Over thirty entries have already been made, Bob Laird, chairman of the committee directing the tournament, reported today, and a schedule of events will be announced a few days prior to the contests. Preliminary events are expected to take two days, with final play scheduled later.

Use Fees for Balls

The events will include men and women's singles and doubles and mixed doubles, with an entry fee of $1 for each person for each event. Special singles for boys and girls 15 years of age or under, with an entry fee of 50 cents per player, will also be arranged.

The fees will be used to secure balls, which will be furnished for all contests, and to purchase silver cups for the winners and runners-up in the various events.

Entry in the tournament may be made at Corwell & Kelty's sporting goods store, 107 South Brand; at the Community Service office, 150 South Brand, or with Bob Laird, 1105 East California. All enthusiasts are urged to enter this week, so that complete schedules may be made out and announced.

The affair is under the direction of Mr. Laird and Miss Mary B. Taylor and Jack Finch, of the tennis committee, and Albert G. Cornwell, chairman of the Community Service athletic committee.

RINGSIDE GOSSIP by FAIR PLAY

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, June 17.—Mickey Walker's toe is responding to treatment and already the welter champion wants to caper around. Harry Wills has cut his training regime in half. He had timed his work to land him in the ring fit on June 19. With nearly two weeks added to this date he had to slow down.

Weinert had not cut his daily stints so materially as he feels that the extra work is a gift of kindly fate. Harry Greb is keeping himself in hand down on Long Island, saying nothing and sawing wood.

Charles Stoneham of the Polo Grounds Co. says that if it can be demonstrated that the seats, ring, etc., can be cleared from the Polo Grounds between the night of July 2—after the bouts among the men above named—and July 5—when the Giants are to play the Phillies—he will sanction July 2 as the date for the show.

So this is the general situation of the Italian Hospital fund bouts which were postponed from June 19 to July 2 when Mickey Walker's toe became infected.

Washington Senators Fined For Not Playing

NEW YORK, June 17.—A fine of $500 was imposed upon the Washington Senators by the American league's board of directors today for the club's failure to play the Chicago team in Washington on Tuesday, as provided by the league constitution. Only Chicago's neglect to protect its right by appearing on the field for the contest prevented an absolute forfeiture by Washington, it was announced by President Johnson, who presided at the meeting.

SPORT CHATTER

By ROBERT T. SMALL
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—It is rare indeed that the modern athlete on his way to the dizzy heights of a championship finds it necessary and essential to tread upon the prostrate form of his dear old "Dad." No heavyweight pugilist, so far as known, ever was faced by the task of knocking his more or less decrepit father cuckoo in the squared circle. Few of the older tennis set ever survive the wearing, tearing grind of the courts to the point where they threaten the juniors for a title.

In the hammer and smash of the football line no "Red" Grange had to give the straight arm to a father on the opposing team. No crack young baseball pitcher ever has found it material to his well-being to strike out the "old man" in a pinch with all the bags loaded.

That sort of thing simply isn't done. And yet along comes this pesky game of golf—the same golf that is winning businessmen away from business, and professional men way from their professions, and youths away from school, and tennis players away from the courts, yachtsmen away from their yachts, and all the other terrible things laid now at the gateway to the links.

The utter depravity of golf knows no depths. Old men hold on their mashies and jiggers and niblicks until the younger generation fairly has to smash and smother them out of the high places.

All of which leads up to the fact that Washington's young championship contender in the ranks of the premier golfers, has once more been called upon to dispose of his aging father in the semi-finals of an invitation tournament held at the Columbia country club here over the same course where the open championship of 1921 was fought but young Roland Mackenzie, 18 years old and nearly six feet tall one of the most natural club swingers the game has produced went on to win the tournament after his father, Albert R. Mackenzie had been safely put out of the way to the tune of 4 up and 3 to play.

Young Mackenzie has won all four of the club invitation tournaments held in the District of Columbia this spring and this week will attempt to annex the title of Middle Atlantic champion the tournament to be held at the course of the new Maryland club, Baltimore.

Mackenzie, senior, won the title two years ago. He will strive for it again this year, but if the luck of the draw puts him once more against his son, the chances are 100 to 1 that the boy will get the decision. Roland Mackenzie is half a head taller than his father; is a handsome modest lovable boy—taking after his mother, according to all the wiseacres of the Columbia club.

The battles between father and son have been hard fought always. Young Mackenzie is just in his fourth season at the game. In his second year he was called upon to meet "Dad" and "Dad" did not hesitate to put the young fellow back where he belonged.

"There's time enough for you in the future," he said; "the old man still packs a wallop."

Roland just grinned. Already he had the vision of the height just ahead. He has "walloped" the "old man" several times since then and there are those who know that father Albert will never be able to "spank" his stalwart son again. Young Mackenzie is no Bobby Jones as yet. He could not match Bobby's recent feat of playing eight championship rounds—two at Lido and six at Worcester—for a grand average of 72½ strokes for each round. Few, if any golfers in the world, can match such a record.

Nor is young Mackenzie yet to be called a stylist, for his swing though free and graceful with all the litheness of youth, has not been mellowed and refined with the priceless years of experience Young Mackenzie shoots Columbia in the early seventies, however, and in one of his latest competitions, reeled off a 72 without effort.

And where does "Mother" Mackenzie stand in all these fierce links battles between father and son, between husband and first-born? Can there be a Solomon-like division of loyalty between the two? What would most mothers do in the face of such a battle? Where would be the winning "pull?"

Mrs. Mackenzie helped to solve the problem this last time by not following the match. Heavenly "tire trouble" saved her from reaching the Columbia course while the semi-final was in progress.

But her secret is out. She confided to a girl and whoever it was never told. Mrs. Mackenzie was hoping, "Dad" would win "just this time," because "Dad" loves the game so much, has been the local and sectional champion and Roland has twenty odd years to go before he will be as old as Dad is today—and all the championship honors lie before him. Was mother wrong in pulling for "Dad?"

EXPECT HUSKIES WILL LOSE RACE

Eastern Experts Pick Yale To Defeat Washington In Annual Event

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, June 17.—There was a suspicion today, faint like the obligato of a distant violin, that the western dynasty over intercollegiate rowing may come to a sudden and altogether unexpected end before the passing of another week.

On Friday at New London the Yale varsity, developed to rowing affluence by Ed Leader, a young genius from the University of Washington, will race four miles against Harvard. On Monday at Poughkeepsie, the University of Washington will attempt to make it three straight over the field.

Both Washington and Yale are and will so remain almost prohibitive favorites to win. Both may lose. That, however, is merely a possibility. It is difficult to say just which of them faces the stronger possibility of defeat because it is so hard to imagine either of them losing. Yale has only one crew to beat and hasn't lost a race in three years under Leader. His eight is said to be as powerful as the combination that rowed the world silly at the Olympic games, although only three members of that outfit are available now. It is a crew that would seem to be destined to wear the purple only.

Harvard Strong

But the tip is out that Harvard has mustered a great crew, perhaps the greatest Harvard crew of 20 years. There is nothing in its 1925 record to indicate impending fame; the eight has simply found itself during the last three weeks.

All the signs point to less than a boat length separating the two at the finish and when you have to draw that fine, anything can happen. Ask the man who didn't know it was loaded.

Washington's greatest menace at Poughkeepsie is furnished by the Navy, which is said to have summoned its best combination since its immortal 1920 crew. This, if true, means that the boat which beats the Navy will be the finest in the land and perhaps Washington feels a trifle short of that classification.

START TOURNAMENT

VERSAILLES, France, June 17.—Miss Glenna Collett and Mrs. P. Garone teed off this afternoon in the first round of the French international woman's golf tournament.

LAWRENCE PERRY SAYS

Special Correspondent to The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925

NEW YORK, June 17.—How would it seem to have the greatest football hero of modern times calling at your home each morning, lugging a cake of ice to the refrigerator If you happen to live in Wheaton, Ill., this honor will be yours beginning this week. The daily caller will be Red Grange.

It is an actual fact that Grange has turned down a lot of money in favor of hefting blocks of ice this summer. The story of his mercenary temptations may be set down as follows:

Early in the year a New York company tried to get him to sign a contract for six weeks at one thousand dollars a week. Red did not see his way clear, all things considered, to accept this offer and the New York project died in vain.

Then recently a moving picture man whose interests have mainly been confined to picture houses in Urbana and Campaign induced him to take a trip to Milwaukee where the Independent Producers were meeting.

Red spent a day with the magnates, and as a result, the country has been flooded with stories of fabulous offers made to him These stories appear to have been exaggerated to say the least.

There are plenty of people who would like to exploit Grange but the athletic star says he will sign no contracts of any sort until after he has been graduated and the earnestness of his sincerity is the fact that the long reaches of the Wheaton ice route rather than the primrose film trail will occupy his thoughts and activities this summer.

Since Grange has another season of football before him there is no doubt he has chosen his career wisely: It makes for strength and endurance.

FRYS PHYSICAL FACTS

By PROF. BYRON G. FRY
Health Expert and Champion Bag Puncher of America.
Written For The Evening News

XLVIII—Mountain Record

Light rations, consisting of well masticated natural foods, again proved their value, when Hugh Stover, of 1133 Glendale boulevard, a lightweight amateur wrestler of unusual physical ability, climbed the Verdugo mountain north of Glendale in the remarkable time of twenty-nine minutes flat. He made the round trip from the pavement at the foot of the mountain to the top and back down in forty minutes.

If there are any records that beat it I would like to hear from the hiker that has a better record as Mr. Stover likes competition and is an experimenter who experiments on his own body without endangering the lives of others, for the purpose of demonstrating to humanity that vigorous health and endurance can come from the eating of natural foods in reasonable quantities.

Mr. Stover made this climb without any special training beforehand. His idea was to demonstrate that a pure blood stream would supply all the repair material that his muscles needed to repair wear and tear of mountain climbing.

His body did not contain the poisons that generate in a body loaded up with three meals per day of white bread, meat and fried potatoes, coffee and other stimulants.

I have tried other wrestlers on this climb and they usually gave out from lack of wind before reaching the half way mark or this same mountain.

MANAGERS FIGHT

Managerial fists flew in all directions as the Cards made it four straight over the Phils, 6 to 4. Managers Fletcher and Hornsby engaged in an impromptu brawl and were ejected. It was the tenth straight defeat for the Phils.

Everett Scott To Appear In Harris Lineup

NEW YORK, June 17.—Everett Scott, veteran shortstop, was released today by the New York Yankees to the Washington Senators, the champions claiming him via the waiver route. No other player figured in the transaction it was announced. Scott will report to Manager Stanley Harris in Washington today in time for the game with the St. Louis Browns. Recently Scott was sent to the bench after hanging up an endurance record of 1307 consecutive games played since early in 1916.

Coronation Stakes To Saucy Sue, Astor Entry

ASCOT, England, June 17.—Before a large crowd of women in smart gowns and men in correct morning dress, Saucy Sue, owned by Lord Astor, raced to victory here today in the Coronation stakes, a feature event of the second day's royal Ascot program. It was Saucy Sue's third straight victory this year.

Lord Derby created a sensation by scratching Pharos, a favorite for the royal hunt cup. He gave no reason. Mann, winner of the English derby, finished third.

DEFEAT INDIANS

Imbued with their frenzy of the preceding day, the Athletics ran amuck against Shaute in the first two innings and won from the Indians, 12 to 7.

THIRTEEN INNINGS

TAYLOR WALLOPS EDDIE GOOZEMAN

Terror of Terre Haute Hands Veteran Terrific Bunch Of Assorted Blows

Eddie Goozeman proved no match for Bud Taylor, the terror of Terre Haute, at Vernon last night when the Hoosier scrapper had things his way until the fight was halted in the seventh round by a towel fluttering over the ropes and into the ring. Said towel came from Goozeman's corner after Taylor had rocked his opponent repeatedly with lefts and rights to the head and body.

In the semi-windup, Johnny Murphy, stablemate of Bud Taylor, got a draw with Sailor Billy Vincent. The real battle came in the special bout, when Al Grunan and Dutch Crozier mixed. Grunan won five rounds and then Crozier put in four straight rights to the face and Al doubled up while his seconds tossed in the sponge. Billy Bunch defeated Billy Quilyer, and Scotty McGlickie won from Johnny Fiske.

START SURVEY ON CROSSING PROBLEM

Railroad Commission Gives Authority For Action; Lasts Six Weeks

A six weeks' comprehensive survey looking toward the ultimate elimination of grade crossing hazards at important points on the Southern Pacific line in Glendale was started today by a committee composed of representatives of various bodies interested, including J. F. Johannsen, city engineer of Glendale. The survey was authorized at a hearing yesterday before the State Railroad commission presided over by Commissioner Clyde L. Seavey.

Other members of the committee comprise representatives of the Los Angeles grade crossing commission, technical engineers of the railroad, Los Angeles city and county, the Automobile Club of Southern California and the State Railroad commission. The survey will be made under the supervision of Transportation Engineer Mott of the railroad commission.

Report to Body

Finding of the committee will be reported to the State Railroad commission at a hearing set for August 12, according to City Attorney Ray L. Morrow who represented Glendale at yesterday's session.

Opposing the move fostered by the Grade Crossing commission, Morrow urged that the proposed plan to lower the grade of the Southern Pacific tracks their entire length within the Glendale city limits to provide for overhead street crossings for at least five important points, including Los Feliz road and Brand boulevard, be given thorough study.

Subway Damages

The Grade Crossing commission, the railroad and the automobile club are said to favor the construction of subways beneath the railroad. The estimated cost of this work at Los Feliz road is approximately $300,000 for actual construction, while damage to adjoining property which would be left high above the street level on each side of the tracks would probably more than equal that sum, it is said.

Important crossings to be considered during the survey besides Los Feliz road and Brand boulevard are Broadway, Colorado street and Fletcher drive.

RAILROAD AUDITOR QUITS POSITION

W. M. Mills Will Devote Time To District Agency Of Eastern Magazines

W. Mervyn Mills, auditor for the Glendale-Montrose Railway Co., announced his resignation from that position today after nine years in the service of the company. Mr. Mills is also district agent for Curtiss publications, including the Saturday Evening Post, Ladies' Home Journal and Country Gentleman, in this district. This business has grown to such an extent during the past year that it will occupy his whole time in the future, Mr. Mills said. He will conduct the agency from his home, 716 North Maryland avenue for the present and will later establish a downtown office, he said.

Mr. Mills started with the Glendale-Montrose Railway nine years ago as a clerk. He worked his way to the position of auditor during the time he was connected with the road.

Contract Signed For Building New Annex

Final signatures were placed today on a contract between the city of Glendale and the Hellman Construction Co. of Los Angeles for construction of the city hall annex to be erected on Howard street between the present city hall and the public service administration building.

Ground will be broken within the next few days for construction of the basement, the entire area of which will be occupied by the police department. The first story will house the engineering and building departments and the planning commission.

GLENDALE SCOUTS LEAD IN RATING

Reports Made At Meeting Of Executives Last Night; Plan Summer Camp

Verdugo Hills council, Boy Scouts, which includes Glendale, was one of ten councils leading the fifty-six councils in the region including California, Arizona, Nevada and Utah, with excellent rating Roy L. Kent, president of Verdugo Hills council, stated last night at the executive board meeting.

Various reports were given at the meeting. Major C. L. Wyman, scout commissioner, reported that the council now has 624 registered scouts; thirty-one active scoutmasters; twenty assistant scoutmasters, and eight deputy scout commissioners.

Further report showed that during the past month 135 merit badges, have been awarded; 374 tenderfeet ratings; 179 second class ratings; 101 first class ratings. Added honor has come to the council for camping activities for the month of May. There were twenty-four troops camping; 239 scouts; seven troop committeemen; one district committeeman.

Summer Camp

Plans are being perfected for summer camps in the San Bernardino mountains. To date twenty-nine troops are registered, with 300 boys.

Present at last night's meeting were Roy L. Kent, council president; A. R. Eastman, treasurer; Dr. A. E. W. Yale, chairman of Burbank district; William Hunter, chairman of Glendale district; Arthur Stover, chairman of Tujunga district; Major C. L. Wyman, scout commissioner.

FLEET COMES HOME

SAN DIEGO, June 17.—Part of America's grand fleet, comprising ships from the Atlantic division, came home today from the recently-concluded joint army and navy maneuvers in Hawaiian waters. # GUARD PORTS IN HUGE MANHUNT

Worthington Outwits U. S. Officers After His Escape From Local Hospital

All boats leaving California ports are being watched and a close guard is maintained at the border line into Mexico in an effort to capture John W. Worthington, the "Wolf of La Salle Street," who escaped from the Glendale sanitarium here last Wednesday, federal officers in Los Angeles reported today.

The former broker, who was sentenced in Chicago to serve three years in Leavenworth prison, after his conviction on a charge of using the mails to defraud, was granted a stay of execution to come to California for his health. When he was brought to the local sanitarium, he was said to have been in a dying condition, but his health has improved considerably during his stay here.

'Short Ride' Taken

When his daughter, Miss Alice Worthington, who has been living at Hollywood, drove up to the sanitarium last Wednesday afternoon in a taxi, she told institution officials that she planned to take her father for a "short ride." Neither father nor daughter have been seen since.

Shortly before he left the sanitarium, he cashed a certified check for $1000, and the former broker is believed to have fled with a large sum of money obtained by a hasty conversion of other securities.

AT RESEARCH HOSPITAL

Mrs. Henry Kilian of 2211 North Verdugo road, underwent surgery this morning at Glendale Research hospital. Miss Virginia Thom of 303 North Isabel street, who has been a patient at the same hospital, was able to return home today.

NEWLYWEDS GIVEN SURPRISE PARTY

Mr. And Mrs. Frank Hester, Jr. Honored When Friends Hold Charivari

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hester, Jr., of 222 Kenneth road, whose marriage took place Monday afternoon, June 1, 1925, at the Santa Barbara mission, were surprised last night when they were honored with a charivari, given by business associates of Mr. Hester at the Bentley Lumber Co. Mrs. Hester was formerly Miss Anne W. Darnell of Gardena.

Following their wedding in Santa Barbara, Mr. and Mrs. Hester spent two weeks in San Francisco and vicinity and at Yosemite. When they returned south and Mr. Hester resumed his duties at the Bentley Lumber Co., 460 West Los Feliz road, he treated his associates to cigars and candies, received hearty congratulations, and little thought of any further celebration of his marriage.

Revenge Is Sweet

However, Frank Crowel, manager of the Eagle Rock branch of the Bentley Co., W. P. Potter, manager of credits, Horace E. Liten, manager of the hardwood flooring department, and Vern Bergadine, head of the bookkeeping department, decided revenge would be sweet. So they with their wives, and a group of other friends, descended on the Hester home at 9 o'clock last night with much noise and hilarity. The evening was spent informally.

There were present Mr. and Mrs. J. Ray Bentley, Mr. and Mrs. George Bentley, Misses Louise Ayala, Gertrude Peterson, Helen Bentley, Arall Hester, Louise Hester; and Merle Potter, Robert Crowel, Mr. and Mrs. Horace E. Litten, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Potter, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Crowel, Mr. and Mrs. Vern Bergadine, Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Gillin, and Howard Bentley.

Huge Tax on Senator Leads to Filing Suit

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Application has been made for a hearing on the treasury department's arbitrary $10,000,000 assessment against Senator Couzens of Michigan and the Dodge and Gray estates, it was announced. Hearings will be held before a special commission to be named by David H. Blaire, commissioner of internal revenue. The case later is expected to go to the board of tax appeals for settlement.

NEW YORK CLOSING

By W. S. COUSINS
For International News Service

NEW YORK, June 17.—Oil stocks wavered as heavy profit-taking poured into this section of the market today, and prices, after reaching a slightly higher level in the early trading, declined to the lowest point in more than a week. The forward movement was taken up by a number of the motor, utility and specialty stocks, which pushed forward vigorously as buying demand became more insistent. Pierce-Arrow common and preferred was an enthusiastic ground gainer in the motor group; United Cigar Stores, Dupont, Electric Light & Power, Famous Players and others in the specialties.

The market displayed a firm and confident tone throughout the greater part of the session, with forward operations helped along by the energetic work of bullish pools and professional traders.

Sponsoring for such stock as United Cigar Stores, Independent Oil, Cast Iron Pipe, American Safety Razor is fairly well located and sharp upward movements in these stocks is generally believed to indicate the activity of a certain group of powerful and fearless operators who have been very successful of late.

Pierce-Arrow preferred reached a new high, at 81½, up 5 points for the day, while the common topped 28 for a new high, up nearly 4 points. The demand for the preferred stock is based on reports that the directors were considering a plan for the payment of the accumulated dividends, which amount to about 28 per cent. Considerable improvement was recently reported in the financial status of the company. The prior preferred, an 8 per cent stock, jumped 18 points, to a new high at 140.

Numerous utility and specialty stocks featured in brisk forward movements of prices. United Cigar Stores gained 5 points, and sold up to 77½; Tobacco Products, in the same family, was also strong. Famous Players sold 4 points higher, while the rights to subscribe to the new stock offering brought 5½ in the curb market. Copper, mercantile and independent steel stocks were generally inclined upward, but speculative interest was small. Industrial leaders, like American Can and United States Steel, were conspicuously inactive. Midweek steel market surveys reported more active operations in the middle west, with an unusually large total of structural awards and good buying of sheets and strips by automobile companies.

Some curtailment of mill operations is looked for and some decline in unfilled orders. Excellent reports came from the oil industry, with crude production down 75,000 barrels a day and rising gasoline markets in the principal consuming centers.

Tobacco, copper and motor stocks carried the general average of stock prices higher in the final period. Pierce-Arrow prior preferred reached a new high at 145, completing an advance of 21 points for the day. The preferred sold at 82 for a gain of nearly six points and the common was up 5 points to 29²¼. Mack Trucks advanced to 182½, up four points on rumors that the New Haven railroad, which is in the market for fifty passenger motor busses, was negotiating with that company.

United Cigar Stores boomed along to 79⅞, up 7 points, except for the oil stocks, which were reactionary on profit-taking, the market was strong at the close.

Stock sales: 1,233,500 shares; bonds $11,769,000.

MARKET SUMMARY

LOS ANGELES, June 17.—The second strike to be called within a week among Pennsylvania coal miners is that of the Lehigh & Wilkesbarre Coal Co.

Forty million dollars more income taxes than estimated will be collected by the government in its fiscal year ending June 30, it was indicated today, with the figure now set at $1,700,000,000.

Railroads report car loadings at a peak with 994,874 for the week ending June 6, the highest for 1925, and an increase of 84,081 over the same week last year.

The public debt of the United States of America, $20,898,856,886 the first of the month, was reduced by approximately $12,000,000 during May.

Because of California's community property law inheritance taxes paid here by estates of married people are less than federal estate taxes paid in Florida, L. H. Roseberry, vice-president and trust manager of the Security Trust & Savings bank, has discovered. He sees no reason why people of wealth should not become citizens of California, to benefit by the ruling of the supreme court on the community property law.

ONCE UPON A TIME — JACK, THE GIANT KILLER---III — BY W. J. ENRIGHT

JACK RUSHED TO THE PIT AND SAID LAUGHINGLY, "SO, YOU ARE GOING TO PUNISH ME ARE YOU, MR. GIANT? I AM AFRAID YOU ARE NOT GOING TO HAVE THE CHANCE."
© McClure Newspaper Syndicate
THE GIANT STARTED TO CLIMB OUT OF THE PIT BUT JACK STRUCK HIM A BLOW WITH HIS PICKAXE AND THAT WAS THE END OF THAT GIANT.
THE PEOPLE FOR MILES AROUND WERE OVERJOYED WITH THE GREAT NEWS AND FLOCKED TO SEE THE GIANT.
W. J. ENRIGHT
JACK WAS GIVEN A SWORD AND BELT ON WHICH WAS WRITTEN, "THIS IS TO THE VALIANT CORNISHMAN WHO SLEW THE GIANT CORMORAN." AND THE PEOPLE THEREAFTER CALLED HIM JACK THE GIANT KILLER.

BUDGET HEARING IS UP TOMORROW

Salary Increases Asked By Heads Of Departments; Council To Meet

Following conferences with various municipal boards and commissions and heads of departments, the City Council tomorrow will open the proposed 1925-26 budget to public inspection for a hearing at 10 o'clock.

A number of minor changes, it is understood, have been made in proposed expenditures for the next fiscal year since the council began a study of the budget three weeks ago. Members of the City Park board, the City Planning commission and the library board appeared before the council meeting in committee of the whole last night.

This morning Dr. G. Kaemmerling, head of the city health department appeared before the council meeting in committee and asked a number of sal

TEACHINGS OF BIBLE TOLD TO LIONS

Rev. M. M. Johnson Speaker At Luncheon; Committee Members Named

"If you can judge a man by his enemies, then the Bible is a wonderful book on that basis alone. Just recall that chapters written thousands of years ago in little nations almost without identity today have maintained a force of antagonists ever since," declared Rev. M. M. Johnson, pastor of the Broadway Methodist church, South, in a talk before the Glendale Lions club at luncheon today.

Briefly he referred to the evolution war between educators, men of religion and scientists of today, commenting that much printed matter is formulated to cast aspersion on the caliber mentally of opponents of the evolutionary theory. He urged his hearers to attend the debate to be held in the Bible Institute, Los Angeles, if they wished to be stirred heart and soul.

Proposed changes in the constitution were held over to the July meeting. Secretary Van Wie announced receipt of tickets for the Montebello meeting, with several Lions already agreeing to go. President F. M. Brock and others expressed opposition to the proposal that formality be used in addressing members, it being declared the use of the name on the badge or a nickname was more suitable.

Bowling Tonight

Bowlers were urged to be out tonight at the Recreation center for the game with Exchange No. 1.

P. H. Hubbard was introduced as chairman of the day after luncheon and the meeting was turned over to him. He introduced the three Sudden sisters. Songs, piano and violin selections were received enthusiastically.

Rev. Johnson was presented by Mr. Hubbard and expressed pleasure at the privilege of being present. Interspersing his remarks with numerous good stories, he dwelt largely on the Bible and its influence on the world.

"The Bible is absolutely capable of proof," he asserted. "It is packed full of scientific facts. Take the ark, measurements of which were written down 3500 years ago by Moses. Today those figures are the same as those accepted by scientific men as the correct proportions for concrete vessels."

Other instances were cited in large numbers.

New officers and committees of the Glendale Lions' club, as announced at the luncheon today at the Harriett Mae Tea room, were:

RADIO BLAMED FOR DAMAGE TO CROPS

Friction Of Sand In Air Also Linked With Blight On Middle West Fields

By J. P. WRIGHT
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 17.

—Electrical winds, blamed by some on radio broadcasting, but by the more scientific on friction of sand in the air and atmospheric conditions, are killing crops in Kansas.

The electrical winds also are charging windmills, barbed wire fences and even horns of catttle, with currents that make them loom up at night, and shock persons who come in contact with them during the day—at least those occurrences are being reported to Kansas agricultural authorities.

And, as a result, Kansas officials seriously are considering setting up lightning rods throughout the corn belt to carry off the current which is said to be scorching the growing corn stalks.

Is No Joke, He Says

J. C. Mohler, secretary of the board, says the matter is no joke.

"I would not say that radio currents have anything to do with it," he said. "But the winds make growing plants shrivel up."

H. D. Flora, state meteorologist, also doubts that radio has anything to do with the new blight. He said his investigations reveal the current-laden winds blow in streaks.

"Sometimes these winds will charge the steel frame of a windmill with so much electricity it will almost knock a man down if he touches it," he said. "The wind has been known to electrify automobiles so that the ignition system would not work and the cars would be stalled. Western Kansas people have learned to meet this situation by fastening chains to their cars and letting the chain drag, to conduct the electricity into the ground.

"These winds have been known to electrify barbed wire fences so that lights appear on the barbs at night, resembling rows of lighted candles. Men have been shocked severely by touching wire fences in paths of these winds.

"One man reported one night when he was driving a herd of cattle in such a wind the tips of the horns of the cattle began to glow with the lights."

Flora's explanation of these phenomena is that the wind gathers up particles of dry dust which are charged with electricity and the dust particles transfer the electricity to the things they are blown against.

In addition to the lightning rods idea, the suggestion has been made that some kind of condenser be arranged, which would enable the farmer to collect the electricity out of the wind and wire it into his house to be used for lighting.

MOB BANISHES PEACE FOR SHANGHAI

Crowds Renew Attack On Foreigners; Pull Down British Signs

SHANGHAI, June 17.—(10:30 p. m.)—After twenty-four hours of comparative quiet during which optimism prevailed for a speedy settlement of the Shanghai strike, disturbances broke out again tonight.

A foreign police sergeant was severely wounded by an infuriated Chinese mob while patrolling the streets of the foreign settlement. He attempted to disperse students haranguing strikers when his revolver was snatched from him The officer was dragged up an alley by the mob and attacked with hatchets and other weapons.

Following a mass meeting in the native city 15,000 Chinese stormed through the streets shouting frenzied anti-foreign threats and tearing down British advertising from the bill boards.

GROWTH OF LIGHT INDUSTRY GIVEN

Committee Submits Reports At Electrical Meeting In Bay City

SAN FRANCISCO, June 17.—Announcement that the electrical industry of the United States is owned by 2,500,000 investors and now represents an investment of more than $7,000,000,000, were outstanding features of committee reports submitted here today to the second general session of the forty-eighth annual convention of the National Electric Light association.

More than $1,500,000,000, it is estimated, will be expended by the electric light and power companies of the nation during 1925 for extensions and additions capable of taking care of the increasing demands for electric light and power service.

Demand For Service

The fact that this service, according to the committee reports, was extended to more than 1,900,-000 new customers last year, was cited as an example of the way the demand for service is increasing.

Mrs. John D. Sherman, president of the General Federation of Women's clubs, addressed the convention today on the subject "What Electricity is Doing For Women."

Her message dealt with a survey by women's clubs of the country to determine the exact present standards of living in the United States and to formulate plans for raising these standards.

TAKES RAP AT BRYAN

SANTA BARBARA, June 17.—Speaking before a local luncheon club Monroe Deutsch, dean of the college of letters and science, University of California, declared "such an attitude of Mr. Bryan on evolution is stifling freedom and it is not consistent with his declaration that 'you shall not nail down the crown of intolerance upon the brows of men'."

Tax Revision Certain As Big Surplus Looms

has, however, been mostly talk. Now the definite figures are coming in.

From all the internal revenue districts and the federal reserve banks facts are being telegraphed every day which show a gradual increase in the amount of tax receipts. By the end of this week the June installment data will be virtually complete and some announcement may be expected from the treasury as to the probable size of the surplus.

Size Not Known

The next tax cut will apply to the money earned during the present year and will be felt by the taxpayer next March.

The size of the reduction that will be granted cannot at the moment be estimated accurately as an analysis of the rates will take some time. Senator Smoot's belief that there will be a $400,000,-000 surplus is regarded here as conservative. It may go above that depending, of course, on what kind of business conditions prevail for the rest of 1925.

Broadly speaking, a big principle has been vindicated in the data thus far collected. It proves that, notwithstanding the substantial reduction in tax rates granted in the last law passed, the country prospered sufficiently to pay almost as much income taxes as before. Thus if the rates are lowered again, officials think even more taxable income will be reported and that the government will get the benefit of larger receipts.

The campaign for a low surtax rate has already received a greater stimulus in the actual figures on the latest returns than it did in months of theorizing argument and it is beginning to be taken for granted now that all factions will agree on at least a twenty-five per cent surtax. And the treasury may recommend even lower rate than twenty-five.

was chaplain of the Ohio State prison for many years and a former Presbyterian minister in Western Pennsylvania.

"But I'm not a Presbyterian. I've always believed in looking them all over. I got my best thrill out of Christian Science. I studied it and carried the books around, didn't I?"

The dentist turned to his attorneys, John S. Cooper and Lewis D. Collings, who were waiting to talk to Young about his defense.

"You look good in blue, kid," Cooper joked at the 46-year-old murder prisoner. Young was wearing prison overalls.

"It's my favorite color," came the quick reply from the "gas killer." He smiled.

"Do you know the blue sea at Santa Barbara? I like blue like that."

Vet Hospital Site Is Approved by Coolidge

WASHINGTON, June 17.—President Coolidge today approved the acceptance by the government of a twenty-five acre tract of land at Portland, Ore., to be used to build a $1,000,000 veterans hospital. The land was donated by the University of Oregon Medical school.

The Hungarian government plans to build 252 apartments in various cities.
